observance of the 50th anniversary of Powered Flight with Lt. General James H. Doolittle as the chairman.

General Doolittle has requested the Governors of each state to appoint a slate of influential men, geographically distributed as a state committee to implement the program for the observance of the 50th anniversary of Powered Flight.

Because of your interest and activity and the contribution you have made to aviation in your area, I am requesting that you accept an appointment on this committee. Mr. W. M. Bartlett, director of the State Board of Aeronautics, will act as the executive secretary of this committee. Mr. Harry Coffey, Portland, Ore., has accepted the appointment as the chairman.

The program will consist largely of aviation programs in connection with the service clubs, chambers of commerce, radio stations, newspapers, school programs, and other public gatherings where the story and the potential of the aviation industry can be brought to the attention of the general public.

You will be kept fully advised with considerable material and a list of public speakers and other information will be available to you at all times. This will be from December 17th of 1952, until December 17th of 1953, which is the anniversary of Kitty Hawk Day.

Your favorable acceptance of this appointment will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. PATTERSON,
Governor.

O.E.S. Officers Installed Jan. 6

The officers of Satellite Chapter No. 165, the Order of Eastern Star, were installed for 1953 at the I.O.O.F. hall Tuesday evening, Jan. 6, in a beautiful and impressive ceremony.

The installing officers were Fileen and Bob Swan, assisted by Brownie Brimm as marshal; Iris Kindel as secretary; Hazel Hendry as chaplain; Grace Edvardson as organist, and Lillian Weidman as conductress.

The following officers were installed: Rose Hubbard, worthy matron; John Molino, worthy patron; Grace Yelton, associate matron; John Peffley, associate patron; Martha Harbin, secretary; Helen Hanscam, conductress; Agda Bickner, associate conductress; Gertrude Suliffe, chaplain; Ethel Jackson, marshal; Alice Rausch, organist; Dee White, Ada; Cora Chabin, Ruth; Enid Hurst, Esther; Ethel Joheps, Martha; Ethel Molino, Electa; Ethel Olsen, warden, and Lloyd Harbin, sentinel.

The impressive ceremonies took place in a beautifully decorated setting of green and silver. A huge silver star, surrounded by a bank of green, formed the background, and silver columns joined by rose and blue satin ribbons entwined with ivy, were on each side of the presiding officers' pedestal, with a basket of rose flowers in front. The piano was covered with ivy and roses.

During the ceremonies, Ellen Knight sang "Gentle Hands" and "Hold Thou My Hand," and Alice Rausch played "Star of the East."

The Courtesy Girls for 1953 were introduced as follows. Amber Campbell, captain; Ann Nelson, Kay Sandstrom, Beatrice Ault, Beulah Peffley and Muriel Gragg.

In a lovely addenda, a White Ritual and American Beauty roses were presented the new worthy matron and Helen Hanscam sang appropriate words to the tune of "A Long Trail A-Winding." The outgoing worthy matron, Iris Kindel, and outgoing worthy patron, Charles Schaal, were presented with jewels and roses, while Helen Hanscam sang "Aloha."

The worthy patron presented the worthy matron, Rose Hubbard, with a beautiful myrtle wood gavel and sounding block for use during her term.

Refreshments were served and a social hour followed the installation.

The right thinker works; he gives little time to society manners or matters, and benefits society by his example and usefulness.—Mary Baker, Eddy.

Too Many Women In Business Is Concern of Males

Such a large percentage of women in business has apparently caused the men a great deal of concern and an attempt to publish a bulletin by the Research Institute of America, Inc., has met with many difficulties and the efforts of the staff on "How to Handle Women," has got them nowhere. After grueling research the only thing the men were sure of was that women were different from men and that is not exactly a modern discovery.

There now are nine times as many women gainfully employed as there were in 1870.

After the men drew a blank on this fascinating subject, it was decided to ask women how to handle women. This is roughly the answer obtained from the distaff staff.

"To supervise women successfully, you have to: recognize in what respects they are different from men; treat them accordingly; and (Ed Note: here is the ace in the hole) not let them know it"

A group of learned analysts made a startling statement during World War II. "Women," they said, "are simply little men" The institute says "it just isn't so," any more than "men are big women."

Women, it says, have greater manual dexterity, better color sense and more patience than men.

You may not agree, but the Research Institute thinks women are "people-minded," that they are intensely interested in people.

"Ask a man, 'Where did you buy this steak?' He'll answer: 'At Green's Meat Market.' Ask his wife the same question, and she'll answer with some emotion: 'Why? What's wrong with it?'"

Women are interested in people rather than things. They like to talk. (You'll agree on this one.)

The institute comments on different types of women, explaining that a given woman falls into a general classification "only in the roughest sense"

With the career woman, for instance, the job comes first. She has a keen competitive streak and thinks she doesn't want expressions of approval from men. To get best results with her, the institute says, "Don't be deceived by her show of hardheaded independence. She may know how good she is, but your words will give her more pleasure than she's willing to admit."

In view of the fact that a mere ten to twelve years ago many of America's leading organizations would not hire married women, what the institute report says about married women is most interesting. The one who plans to stay on the job indefinitely is "usually a mature person with a real sense of responsibility." Don't overburden her with unnecessary details," it cautions. "She has no small skill in running things. Encourage her to come up with suggestions. As a married woman with a household to run, she is probably an efficient "management engineer."

As a final word of counsel, the memo says: "In your own relations with the women in your department, if you show them the deference you give naturally to women in your own social contacts, you're really 'tops'."

Admitting that sometimes women "move in mysterious ways" the institute concludes: "But the average woman is predictable to this extent: If she feels that she is being treated fairly and that you recognize and like her as an individual in her own right, her gratitude will show up in her co-
