Will Hold Baseball Meeting Friday

The spring weather of the last week or more is bringing thoughts of baseball and numerous fans have been asking Pete Lesmeister, business manager and one of the promoters of the Brookings Beavers, when baseball practice will start.

Lesmeister is calling a baseball boosters' meeting for 8:00 p.m. at his office this coming Friday night.

There are several questions to be decided. Shall Brookings re-enter the Southwestern Oregon league after last year's disastrous season and again "buck" the strong and highly subsidized teams of that league or would it be better to affiliate with a lower league such as the Redwood league, including Crescent City, Arcata, etc., or the Rogue Valley league with Cave Junction, Grants Pass, Ashland and other towns in that area. Lesmeister will attend a Southwestern Oregon league meeting at Roseburg

BALLPLAYERS READY FOR SEASON

Jim Barrett, an outstanding ballplayer for Brookings during the 1949 and 1950 seasons, has just been discharged from the army and, together with his charming wife, the former Margie LeClair of Ophir, moved to Brookings over the past week-end.

Another player recently coming to Brookings and who is anxiously awaiting the first baseball practice is Frank Burdell, who wielded a potent bat for the Beavers last season and led the league in hitting throughout most of the league schedule. Frank is presently employed by Floyd Swearingen in the myrtlewood logging business.

Sunday and should have some idea as to the fans' thoughts in the matter.

There is also the question as to whether Brookings will have a baseball diamond this year due to the proposed school construction on a portion of the present field. The school has considerable space for a diamond on other property off Easy street but considerable work will have to be done which the school cannot handle on its own.

A large turnout of interested fans is urged for this Friday night meeting.
