Robert Delap, originally from Arizona, thinks Oregon and especially Brookings is a fine place. He came here last week, has found a job, and a place to eat and sleep so he is feeling happy.

It sure was Warren Smith's lucky night at the Library bazaar. He gathered in enough plunder to set himself up in the wholesale business and solicit orders from the bigger mail order houses. Had he and the Missus' new Cadillac pretty near full of grub and knicknacks. Barney and Lillian Matthews, who usually work their rabbit's feet to the limit, just had a tolerable good time and most of that over a nickle-a-cup coffee instead of the usual expensive dime cups—and the nickle cups looked like they held more than Chad's do.

Mrs. A. J. Matot returned last Thursday after a week's business trip to Seattle.
