Miss Sue Church of Grants Pass has joined the staff of the Oregon State Bank as a teller. Miss Church was formerly with the United States National Bank of Grants Pass where she was head teller and assistant chief clerk. She has had several years experience as a banker, both in Oregon and her home state of Virginia. She is a sister of Mrs. Oliver S. Nixon of this city and will make her home with the Nixons. Miss Church recently purchased the Bud Cross home. Judge Hans G. Nelson is improving after the eye operation he underwent in Medford last week. Mrs. Nelson visited him on Sunday, accompanied by Police Chief "Bill" Brown and family.

Mrs. Estes Morton is doing nicely in Salem where she is recuperating after a siege of virus pneumonia. She will remain there during June while vocal cords impaired by her illness become stronger.

Owen Brown has been nursing a painful finger which was bron on Saturday when the tail-gate of his gravel truck fell on it. He is employed by the Gibbs Concrete Products Co.

The Waffle Shop was closed Monday while redecorating was being done in the kitchen.

I. O. O. F. members and their wives attended Methodist church held Sunday at the Chetco Inn in commemoration of the founding of the order.

Mrs. Avis Cole reports 25 feet of snow on the level at Crater Lake. She and her family drove there from Prospect where they were helping to condition Conservative Baptist Camp near Prospect for summer use. Mrs. Cole had gone to Medford last weekend where her daughter had a medical checkup.

LANGLOIS

By MARION BROOKS

Held Over from Last Week

Wednesday night friends and relatives gathered at the gym to watch the 20 graduates of Langlois grade school receive their diplomas. The Reverend Jenkins of Port Orford gave the graduation speech and it was enjoyed very much by all present. Robert Stankavitch was valedictorian and Betty Jean Hendrickson acted as salutatorian. Mrs. Hoover directed the class in several songs and Mr. Thetford presented the diplomas. Pastor Easterling gave the benediction.

Thursday night was graduation night for Langlois high school. There were eight students on the senior roll. Morren Kamph played for the processional and recessional. Rev. Easterling delivered the invocation. There were songs by Mary, Marlyn and Madelyn Shoop, and the high school chorus, led by Jean Strain. The Langlois band, led by Charlie Jensen, played. Dorothy Foster was valedictorian and Betty Moade was salutatorian. Roy Stein, associate professor of dairy manufacturing at O.A.C., spoke on the "Great Divide" and gave the graduates much worthwhile material to think about as they plan their future lives. Noel Martin introduced the program and
