CITY COUNCIL PLANS PAVING, SPEED CONTROL

The Brookings City Council Tuesday adopted a previously discussed city budget and a new city seal, opened a campaign for a lower speed limit through the city, made plans for next year's street paving and made the Brookings jail the official city jail.

And after that, the council sent a letter to the Brookings Lions Club, thanking them for the street signs erected during the past week.

The greater part of the meeting was taken up by a discussion of paving in the city, under the program in which the state will reimburse the city for damage to streets which are part of the state road system. The Council decided that Oak and Pacific were the streets which should next be presented to the state for their approval.

While they were on the subject, the Council took action to make sure they didn't lose funds previously allocated by the state for this year's paving, but which has not yet been done, because of lack of bids for the state contract. Councilman Warren Smith proposed opening negotiations with the State Highway Commission to make sure the state expended their funds on the project as rapidly as possible.

Charles Young, chairman of the planning commission, told the council of the Commission's attempts to work out a truck bypass through the business district of the city. The discussion came after councilmen had expressed their disapproval of the State Highway Department's speed limit through Brookings.

State Engineers have recommended a 30-mile speed limit here, but the council indicated they favored a 25-mile zone, primarily because of heavy down grades at the edge of the city. The council plans to carry the matter to state engineers.

In other business, the council adopted a new city seal, submitted by City Engineer Charles T. M. Echols, and granted city employees with a year's service a two week vacation period.

Also adopted was a new city ordinance clarifying the procedure under which plans and assessments for street improvements would be made.

paper gave splendid coverage to our festival, with two front page stories, a column of pictures, and another half page the following day.

In a letter to the Pilot, Mr. Hornish told us he had a most enjoyable time here, and congratulated our community on its enterprise and activity.

on Rotary administration and service activities.

Dr. Harry L. Dillin is President of Linfield College in McMinnville Oregon and is a member of the Rotary Club of McMinnville. He was elected District Governor of Rotary International for the 1953-54 fiscal year at the annual Rotary Convention in Paris, France, last May. He is one of the 212 District Governors supervising the activities of some 3,000 Rotary Clubs which have a membership of 372,000 business and professional executives in 86 countries and geographical regions throughout the world.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, their activities are similar to those of the Rotary Club of Brookings because they are based on the same general objectives—developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community-betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Each year, this world-wide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength. During the past fiscal year, for example, 217 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 42 countries of North, South and Central America, Europe, Asia, Africa, and the Islands of the Pacific.
