

Right Around Here

By MAX BRAINARD

The Bob Goykes and Bud Cross live next door to each other up on Pine street. Bob and Clara made a couple of trips over to eastern Oregon for deer and didn't get any. Bud, a couple of convenient evenings, went out just a little jaunt from home and each trip brought home a handsome buck.

Mose Fry has come in from the Long Ridge Packer's station, where he was with the U.S.F.S., this past summer, and is about town.

Russell White says there have been some pretty hard frosts up at his place for several mornings.

Several of the loggers are in some stage of shifting on to a winter show or hanging their rigging on a limb until spring comes again.

Agitation has been started, in the right channels, for a visit of the chest X-ray unit, which is past due. On its last visit, a couple of years ago, pretty nearly everyone in the community was checked and some active cases found where they were not even suspected.

Couple of flocks of geese passed over Friday, headed south, so it looks like the folks had better pay heed to their warnings.

Rev. Spencer is sure going to have a church and he's earning it. He's sure put in a lot of telling work on the structure across from the school property.

Linda Coslett, an eighth grader, is helping out in the Community Library, and a very great help, indeed.

The slab has been poured for the new Richfield sup-station at the corner of 101st avenue and Arnold Lane.

Doug Cooley and Wiley Spence are up at Euchre creek with their log trucks, reported hauling for Bob Swan who has a "show" up there.

The old-timers of the local VFW post were saddened this week to learn of the passing of another of their charter members, Frank Koblenzar of Ophir, who, with his brother, joined the post when it was formed in 1934, and had continuous membership. George died about six months ago.

Attending from Brookings were Mrs. Paul Whirry, Mrs. James E. Koeller and Mrs. L. G. Twohy.

Connie Sees New Styles

Connie Evans—Connie's Beauty Shop that is—spent Thursday and Friday last week brushing up on her trade. She attended the Hair Style Show at the Jackson Hotel in Medford where well known stylists presented new styles and methods.

Mrs. Ruby Lowe, who accompanied her, served as one of the models.

While in Medford, the two were guests of Connie's mother, Mrs. W. A. Cormany. They also were treated to a wonderful venison steak dinner at the home of Connie's sister, Mrs. Wm. Biddle.

55 Pounder Comes Out of Chetco

Salmon fishing was fairly good in the Chetco last week, and was improving Wednesday, according to John Hewitt at Parker's Anchorage.

Silvers were showing in the river for the first time in any quantities, and Chinooks were doing well.

The largest fish of the season came in Friday, when Mrs. Lydia Blood of Medford boated a 55 pound Chinook. The fish was the largest reported in the last couple of seasons.

And Mrs. Blood had plenty of company the first part of the week, as the heaviest run of Chinooks hit the river.

Weather and river conditions looked promising Wednesday for good fishing along the river.
