LOCAL NEWS HAPPENINGS ABOUT FOLKS YOU KNOW

NEW FOREIGN MAIL RATE

The Post Office has announced this week that international postage rates increased November 1 on letters to foreign countries. The rate is now 8c for the first ounce and 4c for each additional ounce.

A timely reminder with the holiday season close at hand is that correct addressing is vital to prompt delivery of packages. It is also important that all packages be securely tied with twine and labeled with a parcel post label.

SPEAKER FROM ALASKA

The Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Hughes and daughter from The Lazy Mountain Childrens Home in Palmer, Alaska will be guests

this week at the Henry Kerr home.

Rev. Hughes spoke Wednesday evening at the Brookings Bible Church and is scheduled to show sound movies and speak at the Assembly of God Church at the "OOF" Hall Sunday evening.

MARTZ NOT GUILTY

Wm. A. Martz was found not guilty of reckless driving in Judge Charles Schaal's Justice Court Wednesday.

The charge against Mr. Martz grew out of an accident in which his car and that of Mrs. C. L. Carver of Myrtle Point were involved July 21, 1953. The accident occurred on the highway about five miles south of Brookings. Mr. Martz was represented

BERGER'S BULB DUGGERY

By BERNICE SWANSON

There's nothing that can give you the willies
Like going out to work in the Lillies.
Though some may think it very funny
We all admit we do it for money
We even settle for Daffodils
If they will help us pay our bills.
But you never heard such goofy stuff
As goes on under that Bulb-shed roof.
Why, some who don't know black from white
Were down there grading yearlings by sight
And tho they tried all they were able
They couldn't keep all the dirt under the table.
You never saw a goofier bunch
Until Brita shows up with the lunch.
She explained the confusion up at the house
Was only caused by a little mouse.

The endless grading was finally done
And the little crew marched out one by one,
And tripping in the grandest style
Headed straight for the Bulblet pile
Where we tried in various and sundry ways
To make the pile last several days.
When we were all bored with each other and looking daggers
Out came Brita and that peppy Nelly Jagers
They brought lunch and didn't coax
They sat and talked about lots of folks.
Then Harriet used most every trick,
To keep from falling in the Creek
And a man such as you have never seen
Came out there looking for Irene.
But the thing that really provokes
Is to get out of earshot of Ann's good jokes.
While there was scarcely ever a noise
From those big handsome, bashful boys.
And Berger ran around in a regular tizzy
Just seeing that man would make you dizzy.
When someone said it was gonna rain
He got into that field and just raised Cain.
It couldn't help but make us smile
As we viewed him from the Bulblet Pile.

He really did that field up brown
And then he got about every gal in town
And you never did hear people rave and rant
As when they all got there to plant.
There was so much trouble that we heard Harriet
Say the Cat came out and tried to bury it.
A little rain is all it takes
For us to forget our pains and aches
But you never saw any more action
Than Ken and Keith on that Fertilizer contraption.
They kept racing with a guy named Cecil who
Began to look like he was running on diesel.

Berger came over to see what's the matter.
Why some of the gals refused to scatter.
The reason for it all nobody knows
Why they wanna drag boxes down those long rows.
But to stay out of trouble away he will walk
Mumbling something about "Women Talk"
He knows darn well, and you can bet.
He's got the best crew a man can get.
Why, you just watch that Ethel Hannon
Take off across that field like a shot out of a cannon.
It's not even funny how she and LaRue
Make some of us look like Monkeys in a Zoo
This is all in fun, but you can't deny,
They don't grow as well with their roots to the sky.
This thing had better come to an end
Before some gal I really offend
Ann's got a backache and Bertha's shoulders
Make her act a whole year older.
Aggie's neck and Rita's knees
But nobody complains more than that Berneese.
Thank goodness I can end this rhyme
Somebody yelled "It's quitting time".
Amen.
