

Smith River Women's Club Entertained By Brookings Singers

Smith River Women's Club held its monthly meeting January 8 in the clubroom at Community hall. President Mrs. Art Lawn presided at a short business meeting.

A cheery fire in the fireplace provided warmth for the room. The mantle carried out the Art Corner theme, with a large oil painting, a desert scene hung above the mantle. An arrangement of books and photographs completed the mantle decorations.

Another painting in water color. The Blue Daisy, and photographic portraiture on the mantle and table were arranged by Mrs. George Shipley, who was in charge of the art corner.

During the short business session, reports were given by committee chairmen. Martha Ulrich gave a report on the library; and the child welfare chairman, Mary Fisher, reported that new scales had arrived at the baby clinic. Mabel Maris reported that the club had entered the Penny Art contest. The Women's Club also made a donation to the March of Dimes fund.

Library chairman, Mrs. Martha Ulrich, with Mrs. Frances Westbrook as co-chairman, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Ulrich gave a brief history of the library, which was organized in 1932. She turned the program over to Mrs. Eunice Fairs, literature chairman, of the San Francisco district, who introduced Mrs. Glyndon Smith of Eureka, garden chairman of the State Federation.

Mrs. Clifford Baughman of Richmond, state literary chairman of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, was guest speaker for the afternoon. She addressed the group and reviewed the book, "The Lady of Arlington." She also gave excerpts and reviewed the current book, "The Coffee Train." The local club-nate in having Mrs. Baughman give these interesting reviews.

Closing the program was special music and singing by visitors from Brookings, which was appreciated by all. Mrs. Nell McKenzie introduced Wilhelmina Donnelly, Meta Myers, La Merne Christianson, Helen Rice, Mrs. J. Moore and Mr. McKenzie, who rendered solos, duets and trios, with piano and violin accompaniment.

At the close of the afternoon, sandwiches and coffee were served from a white linen covered table centered with red berries, greenery and red candles. Presiding at the table were Martha Ulrich and Frances Westbrook. Tea hostess was Grace Hight, who was assisted by club members in serving.

Grange Plans Quilt Display

A chance for everyone in the community to display their cherished hand-made quilts is planned for the Grange hall on Saturday, February 20. The quilts can be any that one has, whether made by themselves or by some one else, and two prizes are being given, one for the oldest quilt on display and the other for the quilt judged best in workmanship and design by the judges.

There also will be tables for display of antiques, but these will be for exhibit only. There will be some one at the hall all the time the quilts are on display, and there is no fee for entering a quilt or for admission to the hall. Cake or pie and coffee will be served by the Grange ladies at a small charge for those who wish to have refreshments.

As the plans now are, the quilts will be entered between nine and eleven in the morning, with the doors open to the public at one-thirty and to remain open until about nine-thirty, at which time the quilts are to be picked up by the owners. There will be a door prize, which will be drawn for about nine in the evening, and the lucky winner will have to be at the hall at that time in order to receive it.

Almost every family has some cherished quilts which they would be proud to display, and at the same time being able to see the quilts brought by their neighbors makes an event well worth taking part in.

By J. J. GALLAGHER

"I'm footloose and fancy free,
No wedding bells will chime for me;

I walk alone, forever free,"
Thus quoth the gay young blade.
Now, solve for me this mystery,
Where would this blithe young blister be

Had his grandsire been such as he,
Or his grandma died an old maid?
