Plans Laid For Harbor Rural Fire District

The initial steps toward a Rural Fire Prevention District south of the Chetco river were taken at a meeting held Monday night at the Chetco Grange Hall.

Residents of the area heard E. A. Taylor, Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal explain the rural fire protection law, and a committee set to work immediately to bring

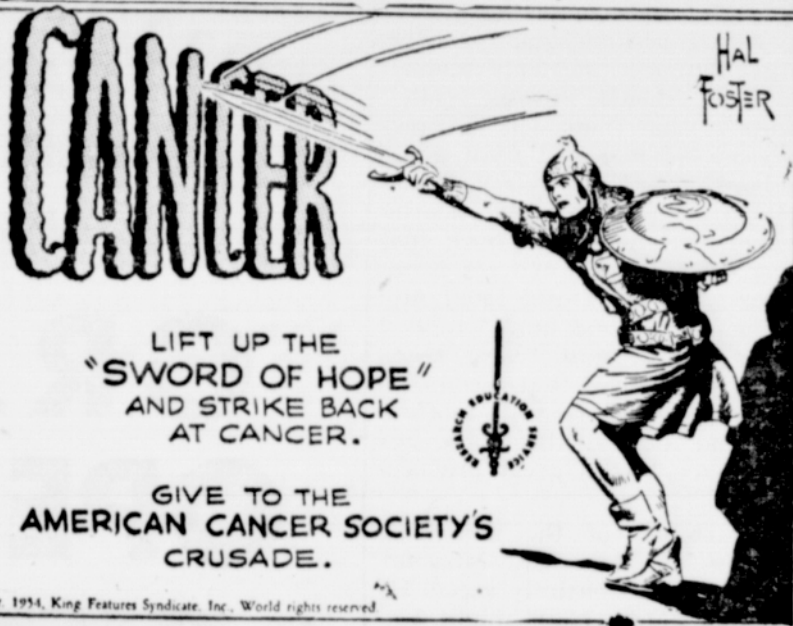

As tentatively laid out, the district will run from the river to the state line, embracing the coastal plain. Final boundaries of the district have not yet been determined, however.

The committee working on the district includes Milton Foster, Ed Ravekes, David Crockett, Howard Cantrall, Fred Harvey and Grange Master Fred Gustafson, with Katherine Foster as Secretary.

Vern Hanscam was chairman of the organizational meeting, which the district into existence. saw no opposition among those property owners there.
