RACE AT TRIANGLE

Roy Pollard and Al Phillips drove to Triangle Lake last week end where they entered the boat races in A and B class Hydroplane. All they say about how they came out is that they're improving!

Rev. and Mrs. James Ayers of Tujunga, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. George Ayers (their son) from San Bernadino were recent visitors both in Carpenterville and Brookings. Mrs. James Ayers is a sister of Rose Bell, Emma Ellsaesser, and Fred Martin.

telephones
are NOT

by the dozen!

Most things you buy are cheaper in quantities than they are in small units. And, in business, it almost always is true that when sales volume goes up, operating costs come down. But for us, the greater the number of telephones in our system, the more it costs to operate each one of them!

The telephone industry is perhaps the only major field where it is more expensive to operate a large number of units than it is a smaller quantity. If we had only two subscribers, there would be only one possible connection, and with three there would be only three. But here simple multiplication stops. When we have 100 subscribers, we must provide for 4,950 possible connections and in most of our exchanges the possible connections become astronomical. Modern switchboards and equipment help, of course, but even with them the cost per telephone rises as our facilities grow larger in each exchange.

This is merely one factor we face in maintaining the finest possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost. Our average wage rates have doubled since 1945. Our taxes and operating expenses have increased 7½% just since 1952. Unfortunately in the telephone business nothing is "cheaper by the dozen."
