

SKETCH BOOK

By BUD PISAREK

Everyone on their best behavior! My mother-in-law is coming to town for a few weeks vacation. She, along with my wife's father, will arrive just about press time, Wednesday.

My father-in-law, we suspect, put aside a two weeks vacation into the wilds of Canada for this trip to the coast. We hope the lucky old sun is going to make itself known during the coming weeks.

Coming from Wisconsin, Milwaukee to be exact, they don't expect rain. That is when ever the Milwaukee Braves are in town. The Chamber of Commerce forbids it to even suggest rain.

If any of you are real baseball fans, and would like to know the ins and outs of the Braves, ask my in laws. They have spent many a day and night out at Milwaukee's county stadium watching the progress of their favorites, the Grimm men.

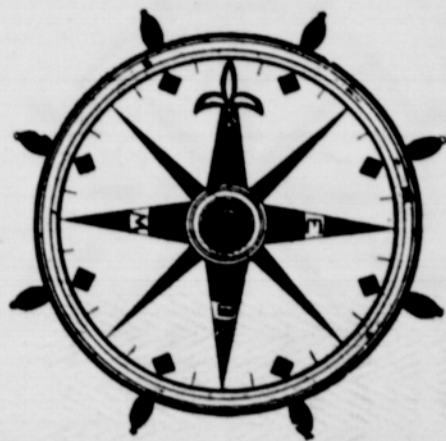

We have been hearing a lot about the Salmon rolling, spawning, swimming, etc. Anyway it all adds up to good fishing soon. That should make many a future bride happy to know she can have enough of the new sought after wedding decorations.

The Office cat received his first letter and has been purrin' pretty

FISHING CONTINUES SLOW IN AREA

The fishing in the Brookings area has continued a little slow, at least on the outside, according to Hewitt's anchorage. Three fish have struck in the Chetco recently, and some nice cutthroat trout have been caught.

However, outside fishing has been slow. It is more of a waiting period. The fish should be coming up about the middle of September, but is indefinite as always.

WINCHUCK CLUB MEMBERS WIN AWARDS AT FAIR

Southern Curry County can be justly proud of the showing made by members of the Winchuck Livestock club at the County Fair last week in Gold Beach. Dale Crump placed first in Sheep showmanship, thus winning a trip to the State Fair in Salem. Larry Hapman placed first in the county with his pigs and this entitles him to go to the State Fair. A third member, Janet Crump had her steer placed first, and she also wins a trip to the State Fair if she can arrange transportation for the steer and herself. This club is under the leadership of Mrs. Leland Pettegrew and Mrs. Harold Crump.

An additional award was given a member of this club with Richard Donnelly being presented the trophy for the best boy camper at the 4-H camp held in July. As there were about 200 4-H members at the camp, this is a distinct honor.

ELK'S DANCE SET

The first dance of the Brookings Elks lodge is slated for Saturday, Sept. 11 at the V. F. W. hall. Originally the dance was scheduled earlier, but was postponed because of a conflict.

The dance will be for Elks and their wives, and will include a band and refreshments.

WARREN SMITH FOR MAYOR PETITIONS FILED

Warren Smith will run for mayor of Brookings this year. Three petitions bearing his name have been returned to the office of city recorder, Gladys Kanick, including more than enough signatures needed. Only about 20 names were needed, but at least 58 people signed the Smith petition.

Smith has been a councilman since the city's incorporation in 1951. His council term was due to expire this year.

The present mayor, Robert Dimmick, has definitely signified his intentions of not running again this year. No other petitions have been taken out for mayor, Mrs. Kanick said, nor have any been taken out for the two council positions that will be open this year.

The mayor term is for two years, while councilmen will be elected for four years. Besides Smith's vacancy, C. F. Campbell's term is also expiring this year.

Clive Manley, and Pete Lesmeister, both councilmen, have two years yet to serve.

W. AUSTIN SIMMONS TO OPEN STUDIO

W. Austin Simmons has moved to Brookings from Portland to open a music studio. The artist will reside and maintain his studio at the Chetco Inn.

Simmons comes to our city with a great deal of experience in piano and music. He studied with Lescheizky, a teacher of Polands great pianist, Paderewski.

His teaching background includes instructorship at the Todd School of Music in Portland and various teaching assignments in San Francisco. He is an Oregon state accredited teacher.

Persons interested in piano lessons are asked to contact Mr. Simmons at the studio.

Phelps Is Named Triplicate Editor

Bill Phelps, former managing editor of the Brookings Harbor Pilot has announced a new position as news editor the the Del Norte Triplicate in Crescent City.

Phelps, who had spent over a year in Brookings, has already started work at the Triplicate. He will be doing most of the photography work also.

His wife Doris, and their two children are staying at Salem, Oregon this week, after visiting relatives in San Francisco. The Phelps will be living in Brookings for an indefinite time.

DINNER GUESTS

Sunday dinner guests at the Dick Latimer home on Ransom St. were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wood, of Medford.

BROOKINGS-HARBOR SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY WITH 800 STUDENTS

Approximately 850 youngsters ranging from the sophisticated senior to the tender first grader will report for registration Tuesday at the Brookings-Harbor school.

Registration for all high school and transported elementary pupils, grades one through six, will be Tuesday morning at 7:30, and with city pupils, grades one through eight, and transported seventh and eighth registering at 12:40.

High school pupils and seventh and eighth grade will register in the elementary building. Fifth and sixth grade band students will attend in the afternoon.

First grade pupils may enter school if their sixth birthday occurs on or before November 15. Parents of first grade pupils should bring the child's birth and health certificate if not already at school.

Morning shift pupils should come to their regular place and meet the bus, about five minutes earlier than last year. The bus will arrive at the school building at approximately 7:35. School will begin at 7:40.

In as much as all seventh and eighth grade pupils attend the afternoon shift, seventh and eighth grade students should be at their regular bus stop to meet the bus which will arrive at the school building at 12:30. Seventh and eighth grade pupils on the end of the routes should be ready to meet the bus by 11:30.

Seventh and eighth graders should not come to the school in the morning.

The Oregon Law requires that books be furnished by the district for the first eight grades. The high school students furnish their own books.

School superintendent Lynn Hampton reports that all the teachers are in Brookings, and are ready for the school opening.

Hampton said that last year the school had about 545 in attendance on the average in the elementary grads, and about 178 in the high schools.

However, the school's graduation class was only 30, while 60 students will be moving up from eighth grade into high school this year, not counting others coming in to the community.

Also Hampton said that there were 54 eighth graders moving out of that class in the elementary school last year, while there will be a record breaking 100 beginners coming into the first grade.

Sen. Cordon Plans Brookings Visit

U. S. Senator Guy Cordon has Brookings included on his campaign itinerary, and will stop here for a noon luncheon on Friday, Oct. 1. Cordon is running for reelection against Richard Neuberger.

The stop was announced by Bob Dimmick, who is Curry County chairman of the Cordon for U. S. Senator Committee.

Dimmick said that it was also planned to have the Senator speak to the high school students, on that same date. Plans for Cordon to speak where all those interested could hear him talk are also being formulated.

Cordon has been traveling throughout the state during the past two weeks since congress has adjourned.

WORK IS PROGRESSING slowly on the new library building under construction in Brookings by members of the library association, and others interested in seeing that the city has a library. The land was given to the association by the Federal government, and will in turn be deeded over to the city. Almost all of the work done thus far was done on a volunteer basis by members of the association.
