Thirty Four Deaths Recorded In Traffic Crashes

One-half of the 34 traffic deaths recorded in Oregon traffic in August occurred in one-car crashes.

Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry pointed to the figure Tuesday as further proof of a trend noted in analyzing the state's six month traffic record, when deaths from non-collision mishaps rose sharply.

Eleven persons died in 10 non-collision crashes during the month, most of them because drivers "lost control" of their vehicles and rolled off the highway.

Six others were killed when motorists collided with trees, guard rails, and telephone or power poles. One freak accident occurred when a driver, trying to avoid a pedestrian and an animal, struck a telephone pole. The pole crashed to the ground striking another car and crushing the driver.

Several of these non-collision and fixed object crashes started when drivers tried to apply brakes and went in to fatal skids. State safety men called attention to the crashes because they said, "We're entering the time of year when drivers frequently fail to adjust speed to meet highway and weather conditions."

Fog, rain, wet leaves and early morning or night frost in higher elevations generally result in an upsurge of one-car mishaps during fall months Newbry commented.

WORK BEING DONE ON OBSERVER POST

A group from the American Legion worked on the Ground Observer Post last Sunday, with the Auxiliary serving a pot luck luncheon. The post is very much in need of help, so the same program will be carried on this coming Sunday.

You need not be a Legion member to help on this project.

Brookings-Harbor Pilot 3 THURSDAY, OCT. 7, 1954

Everybody is welcome, as this is a community project.

Fred Hinz, a former Legion member, has moved to Medford. The local post is sorry to see him leave, as he brought in five new members in the short time he was here.
