"straddling the fence" is possibly the easiest attitude considering the calibre of the two contestants. However on election day sides will have to be taken.

I have great respect and admiration for Mr. Brimm's courage and unselfishness in offering himself for public service. But I do not believe Mr. Brimm actually knows just what the duties and responsibilities of mayor are, and how time-consuming they can be. It is not a matter of one meeting a month, but a matter of how many hours a day. When a mayor is also responsible for the operation of his own business, something must suffer, either his business or the affairs of the city.

In my honest opinion, no individual should consider running for the office of mayor unless he has either been closely associated with city affairs or been a member of the council for a term. Also ideally he should have unlimited free time to devote to the office especially at this present time when the city has so recently adopted its charter. The next year or two will be the most hectic, busy and important in the "City of Brookings" existence. If we are going to realize our dream of a clean, modern, safe, and solvent city, we will need a man in the mayor's office who has not only ability but also time to use it.

During the two years I have served on the council I have become increasingly aware of Warren Smith's ability, his acumen and accurate judgment, his tact with the public, his remarkable understanding of fiscal and administrative details. Fortunately Mr. Smith also has the time and is willing to devote it to civic affairs. For this the community can be grateful. There is no glory, salary or laurel wreath for any mayor, just time-consuming and often heartbreaking work.

For me, and the other councilmen too I am sure, the best interest of the City of Brookings will always be first in importance, regardless of the election results. However I want to publicly state that when we have a candidate with Warren Smith's experience and proven ability and know this next term will be a rough one, I feel it would be doing the city a great injustice not to accept Warren Smith's services and elect him to a job for which he is so well qualified. I hope you who read this will agree, and join me in voting for Warren Smith for Mayor of Brookings.

Clive D. Manley.

OREGON NEWSPAPERS SUPPORT THE MILK MARKETING ACT!

The Journal

The Journal opposes the outright repeal of the milk marketing act, commonly called by an initiative law, as proposed by an initiative on the November 2 ballot. It involves too great a gamble with the basic dairy industry and with Oregon's milk supply.

the "Oregonian"

The theory that milk is a commodity deserving of special treatment is not one peculiar to Oregon whose voters for the third time will pass on state milk control this November. Since 1933, when the legislature passed Oregon's law, 17 states and the federal government have acted to stabilize the marketing of fluid milk in the public interest.... This newspaper doubts that Oregon would gain by throwing out a system that has worked well for two decades has supplied the people with good milk at reasonable and comparatively constant prices. The competitive factor, which is the chief attraction of the repeal proposal, could be given freer play within the framework of our present law. We should all see that is done rather than take action which undoubtedly would result in substitution of federal supply for state control over much of Oregon's milk.

the "Oregon Journal"

The Oregon Independent Grocers will again support the Oregon Dairy Farmers by extending their cooperation in the campaign against the repeal measure. The Milk Marketing Act is so vital to the families of Oregon that we grocers are enthusiastically supporting the LAW. The welfare of our customers and the economy of the State is at stake and that, we must protect. We feel confident the voters of Oregon realize the serious threat to their steady supply of pure, wholesome milk and will vote NO against the dangerous repeal measure".

 CLAUDE E. HALL
 President, Waldport, Oregon

Grants Pass "Courier"

(EDITOR FRANK STREETER)
A Josephine county voter who supports outright repeal of the milk control law is voting to damage a major local industry, and thereby will damage his own economic status as a resident of the area.

Eugene "Register Guard"

(EDITOR WILLIAM TUGMAN)
Some form of basic protection for the farmer who maintains the herds is needed to protect the public which buys the milk from the evil results of a demoralized market without regulation. We shall VOTE NO on No. 8.

Klamath Falls "Herald"

(EDITOR FRANK JENKINS)
There will be an initiative measure to repeal the Oregon milk price control law.
I'll vote against that one. In these days, nearly everybody has price protection in one form or another for his product. If anybody deserves price protection, it is the hard-working dairyman. Besides, milk prices are all bound up with MILK SANITATION. And, on top of that, milk is all bound up with public health.

Redmond "Spokesman"

The Milk Marketing Act should be retained for the benefit of the consumer and producer alike.

Portland Chamber of Commerce

The board voted to oppose repeal of the milk act because it felt the present act is necessary to provide the farmer with a fair and dependable income and at the same time provide for year-around supply of high quality milk at a reasonable price.
