Bud and I must have B. O., athletic foos, or another of those socially unaccepted things, as the council, along with the planning commission, Elmer Bankus, and Archie Rice of the firm Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield met Friday night at the Cliff House, and we weren't invited. Well, maybe it wasn't of public interest—probably just a social get-together of no concern to the citizens. Anyway our feelings, are hurt.

All kinds of new people coming in to town. We met the new 7th Day Adventist Pastor, Melvin Tompkins, the new jeweler, Dan Styers, and the new druggist Frank Hyatt all this week-end. Now if we can only run into the new state policeman stationed here we'll be set.

Had a visit from our old employers Hal and Portia Schlitz at the Myrtle Creek Mail. Certainly a lot of you old Myrtle Creekers remember that pair. They were visiting at the Jerry Shroeders former neighbors of theirs. Hal spent part of Saturday evening, and a good deal of Sunday morning downstairs fixing our linotype. Talk about a busmans holiday.

We took Jerry on a conducted tour of our plant, and then he took us on a tour of the Plywood plant. His is bigger. Actually it was the first time I've seen the peeler in operation, and it was interesting. That green chain gang reminded me of my youth working on an assembly line piling up Kleenex boxes in Wisconsin.

Members of the Lions club did the lions share of work in piling up nearly $1900 in the March of Dimes drive. That is a lot of money for a town of this size, and somebody should toss a bouquet or two at that club... and of course to the people that contributed.

Give Information On New Pharmacy

Further information was received on the Pharmacy, which will open in Brookings in about a month. The store will be located in the Campbell building, adjacent to the Western Auto Store.

Frank Hyatt, of Salem, the operator of the Pharmacy was in Brookings over the week-end laying the groundwork for his new store. He was a buyer for three Quisenberry Drug stores in Salem, and is originally from Idaho. He has been in Salem for 7 years. Hyatt is a graduate of Pharmacy at Idaho State College.

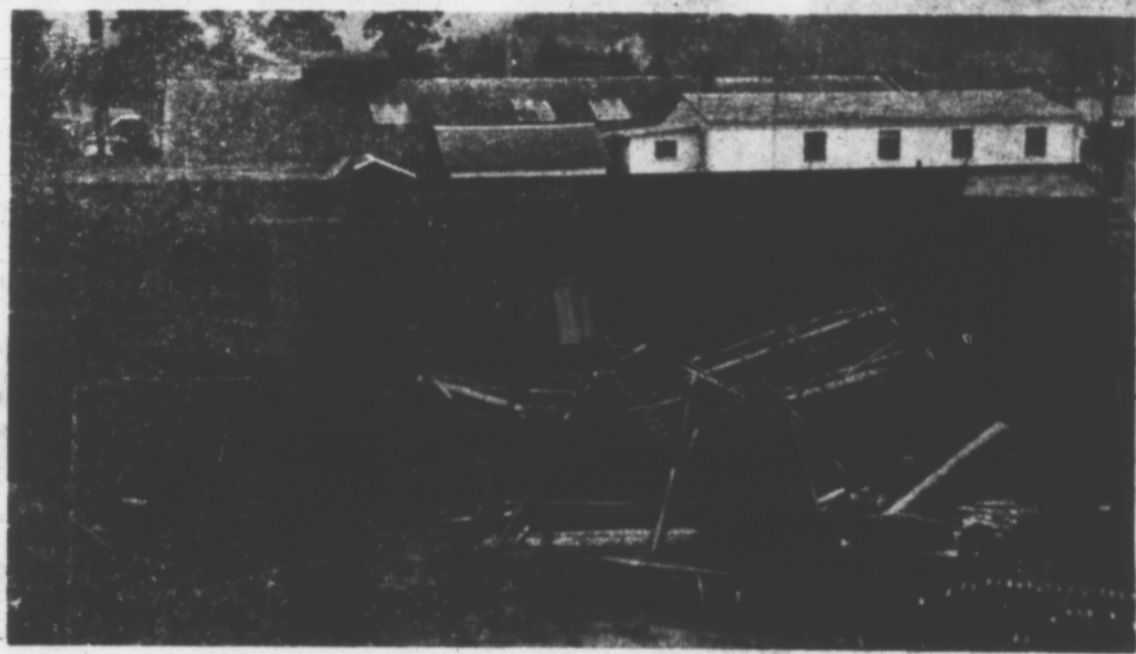

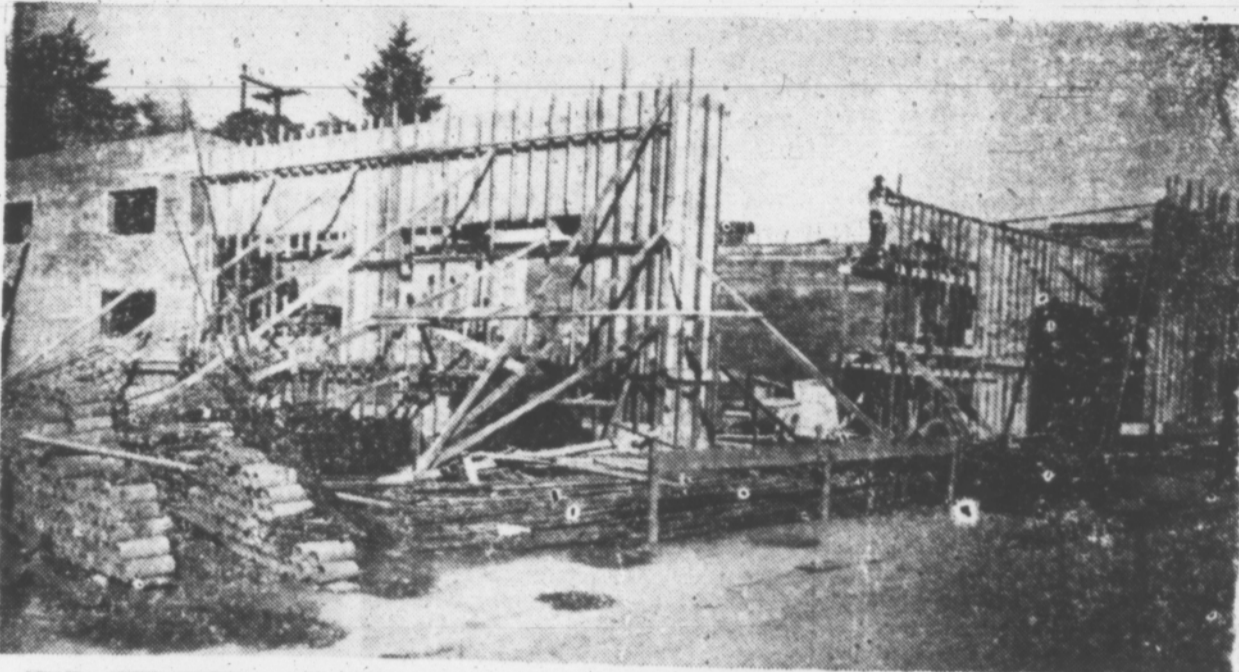

Hyatt, and his wife Nadine have four children, Janis, 6; Gary, 4; Terry 1 1/2; and Debra, 4 months. They will be moving to Brookings as soon as housing is available. Hyatt intends to open the store definitely by April 1st, and he plans to begin work in getting the building in shape immediately. The Pharmacy will feature McKesson-Robbins specialties, prescriptions, sundries, magazines, tobaccos. The plan is now to be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and there will be some Sunday hours, Hyatt said.

Elks to Have Valentine Dance

The Brookings Elks will hold a Valentine's dance in their new quarters in the Kessler-Weideman building on Saturday evening, Feb. 12th.

An orchestra has been obtained and a midnight luncheon will be served. The dance which will start at 9:30 is restricted to local Elks, visiting members, their ladies and out-of-town guests.

BEFORE and AFTER

BEFORE AND AFTER THE WIND... a unique pair of photos taken by Frenchy Arrell. The upper picture shows the U. S. National Bank building as the wall was, up ready for the pour on Monday, and the lower photo was taken the next morning, just after a freak windstorm had toppled the wall over, causing a week set back in production.

Lions Net Nearly $1900 for March of Dimes Benefit

Missionary Visit In Brookings

Mr. and Mrs. Ray G. de la Haye will arrive this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kerr for a final visit with their many friends before returning to Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. de la Haye has served under the Sudan Interior Mission board in Nigeria, West Africa for the past eighteen years. The last two years were spent translating the Bible into the Hausa language.

However, when they return this spring it will be to a new station and a new type of work. They have been appointed managers of S. I. M.'s new radio station KEWA at Monrovia, Liberia.

Both Mr. and Mrs. de la Haye are accomplished musicians. Ray plays the violin and saxophone and Sophia the piano, and they both sing. They will be able to put these talents to good use in their new work.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr are hoping to be able to visit their friends in Monrovia in the not too distant future and view the work there first hand and also see the country the de la Hayes find so alluring.

Mr. de la Haye will show colored movies of their work in Nigeria Sunday evening, Feb. 13 at the Brookings Bible church.

Cora E. Morris

Dies in Portland

Cora E. Morris, 76, a long time Brookings resident died in a Portland Sanitarium on Monday, Feb. 7. Services will be held from the 7th Day Adventist church on Thursday, Feb. 10, at 2 p.m. with Elder Tompkins officiating.

The concluding services will be at the Ward Memorial cemetery, with Browns Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will appear in next weeks paper.

Glenn Bartley Leases Market

A major change in the Freeman's Chetco Store was announced this week, as Glenn Bartley leased the meat department from the store and will operate under the name Bart's Market.

Bartley is a native of the Los Angeles area, and spent five years in the meat business in Medford before coming to Brookings last April. He is married, and has a daughter, and a baby son.

Chetco River Bridge Getting Bumper Rails

A state highway crew has been busy the past week equipping the Chetco River bridge with corrugated bumper rails about five feet above the deck to protect the spans from damage by trucks. At the rate the crew is going, the job should be finished this week.

The Brookings-Harbor Lion's club went way overboard in their March of Dimes campaign this year, breaking all records in their total returns.

Last year the Lions had netted over 1500, which was more than the rest of the county combined. This year that figure will be exceeded by several hundred dollars, as the total nets $1900 with some returns still not in.

Al Phillips chairman of the March of Dimes committee for the Lions released a partial list of major contributors, and thanked the people of Brookings for their wonderful cooperation in this cause, and a special thanks to the merchants for prizes auctioned off at the Lions party.

Counter containers, $227.69; Direct Mailing, $335.80; School Cards, $67.89; Basketball games, $85.05; Clothes Lines (Ken's Pine Cone—Big Jims—Cliff House) $267.00.

March of Dimes Party and Dance, $401.83; Late show at Pine Cone theatre, $34.66; Logs donated by (Tamba—Chetco Logging—McNeely, Stanley Colegrove), $277.66.

Swan Lumber, $100.00; South Coast Lbr. $75.00. Total contributed so far $1872.58.

Jeweler Arrives In Brookings

Dan Styers, of Yreka, Calif. has arrived as the new jeweler, and watchmaker at Mince's Jewelry store. Styers arrived Saturday, and began work here Monday. He is married, and has a little two year old girl, Rebecca. He took his training at Oregon Tech in Klamath Falls, and is a native of Montana, and Weed, Calif. Styers worked in jewelry stores in Weed and Yreka, Calif. before coming to Brookings.

The Styers will be living in Brookings shortly.

He replaces Harry Phillips, who is now visiting at home in Astoria, and is planning an extensive trip east.

Plans Move Ahead On Water, Sewer Survey

Famed de Paur Chorus to be At Crescent City

The celebrated de Paur Infantry Chorus, undoubtedly the most successful new attraction in the concert business in the last decade, will be heard in Crescent City on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 13, at 2:15 p.m., a matinee concert, under the auspices of the Del Norte Community concert association.

Since its civilian debut after four years' service in the uniform of the United States Army, the de Paur Chorus has given more concert performances a year than any attraction on the lists of Columbia Artists Management, which brings them here.

Rev. Tompkins Is New Pastor

Rev. Melvin Tompkins has arrived in Brookings to assume the pastorate of the 7th Day Adventist church here, and also the church in Gold Beach and Port Orford.

Rev. Tompkins will be living in Brookings, with his family. He is married, and has two children, Claudia, 8, and Randy 3. The Tompkins have already found housing here and will be setting up there home shortly.

He was previously at White Salmon, Wash. and is a graduate of Walla Walla College with Biblical languages major, and musical minor. Rev. Tompkins plays the slide trombone.

He served three and a half years in the army field artillery, and saw overseas service in the Pacific theatre. He is a native of Oregon, having been born in Portland. He has served churches in Washington, Idaho, and now in Oregon.

The last three pastors at the church, Matson, Metcalf, Calvin Hamrell, and now Tompkins were all in the same class in college.

State Police To Have Officer Here

Chief of Police Bud Cross reported to the Council Tuesday night that a state police officer will be stationed in Brookings from now on. He will be Glenn McDonald, former Oregon City Police Chief, and a one time instructor of Cross's at Coos Bay Police School.

The new officer will operate out of the Brookings City Jail on a temporary basis. A desk, and telephone is being installed in there.

SPEED UP MAIL SERVICE HERE

A new outgoing mail service was announced by Bill Thompson, Brookings postmaster. First class outgoing mail for the north and east will be dispatched from Brookings in the afternoon now, as well as in the morning.

This service will speed up outgoing mail to the north by approximately 12 hours.

Morning mail will be received until 8:45 a.m., and afternoon mail will be received until 2:30 p.m. Any mail received after this time will be dispatched in the next outgoing mail, Thompson said.

Plan Special Meeting Of American Legion

A special meeting of the American Legion is being planned for Monday, Feb. 14 at Jaklewick Anchorage, beginning at 8:00 p.m. Some very important news to all veterans, whether Legion members or not will be released, and all are asked to attend, according to C. O. Leonard, Commander of Chetco Post 138.

Power Outage Here Monday Evening

The power outage Monday night throughout Brookings was called by some crossed signals. The power was out for better than an hour and a half, beginning at about 8:30, throwing bowling schedules off, and disrupting things in general. The Coos-Curry office reports that a falling steam plant fuel supply at the Brookings Plywood caused the firm to switch to city power, but by mistake the city power was not timed properly to the Plywoods, and it threw the city power off. Coos-Curry's men didn't know what the cause was, and began tearing up cables.

Rotary to Celebrate 50th Anniversary

The Rotary Club of Brookings will join 8,400 other groups in 89 countries around the world in an observance of Rotary's Golden Anniversary.

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the world's first service club of its type is Wednesday, Feb. 23rd. Local observance will be on Monday at the clubs special luncheon at the Cliff House.

In charge will be the club president, Les Dimmick (co-owner of the Brookings Market with Rotarian Bob Dimmick), and master of ceremonies for the evening will be Bob Perkins, a former resident of Brookings.

Overall, Golden Anniversary chairman is Archie Hendricks, popular local furniture dealer.

The anniversary program here will feature a student from a foreign country, who is enrolled in our University of Oregon. The program will also include several numbers by the local high school band, all decked out in their new uniforms provided for in major part, by the local Rotary club. Several other acts are yet to be announced.

The anniversary program here will include a summary of the history of the Brookings club, which is now eight years old, given by Lynn Hampton, an early day member of the club, and high school superintendent.

Rotary was born in Chicago, when a young lawyer, Paul Harris, conceived the idea of getting better acquainted with his business and professional associates. The name stems from the fact that the first meetings were held in rotation at the homes of the different members.

The original club had seventeen members.

As Dimmick explains it, the purposes of the Brookings club are based on those of Rotary International increased fellowship, betterment of the community, help to boys and girls in becoming better citizens, promotion of high business standards, and ethics, and the advancement of international understanding.

The February 23 Golden Anniversary is the first of four events related to the half century of Rotary development. Others will be a district conference in Longview, Washington in March, an intercity meeting in Coos Bay in April, and the annual Rotary International convention in Chicago in late May.

Brookings members will participate in all four meetings.

The Brookings club now has 48 members, representing almost that many business and professional occupations.

The plan to have the city problems appraised is beginning to take shape. The city council met last week, it is believed, with a representative of the engineering firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield to discuss the possibility of an appraisal.

Ed Aldrich, chairman of a citizens committee, reported to the council at their regular Tuesday night meeting that the firm will submit a cost of the preliminary survey at an early date. And then, if the city approves, the survey work could begin shortly.

Elmer Bankus, owner of the Brookings Water Co. appeared before the council. Bankus stated in a letter that he has confidence in the engineering firm, and that he would sell the Water System at appraised price, unless it is completely out of line. He requested the option to reject the "appraised price" if it was out of line, and then he would pay for the cost of the survey.

The appraisal would cover storm sewers, sewers, water and streets. Bankus said he wouldn't sell the water system and not the sewer system, and said he wouldn't "save the sewer system for my old age."

Aldrich asked him if he would sell the sewer system without the water system, but Bankus said he would take it under advisement.

Bankus also brought a land plat before the council, asking their permission to develop it into residential areas. The land is located atop the hill behind the bank building. However, the council asked that it be taken to the planning commission, and said that they would abide by the commission's recommendation on the matter.

The council also opened bids on a new police car and accepted the bid of C. Ed Dempsey, for a new Plymouth, provide that the present car can be sold. Dempsey's bid was about $300 cheaper than the next highest bidder, a Ford. An Oldsmobile was also bid upon.

Police Chief Bud Cross also requested that nylon tires be put on the vehicle. planning commissions recommendation that a temporary use permit be granted the Union Oil Co. in order that they can put up a wholesale bulk oil and gas plant behind their station on Highway 101.

The building would be out of concrete block, and would be fenced in, according to specifications. All tanks would be underground. The new building would cost about $30,000, above the cost of the station which is nearly completed. The station also cost about $30,000.

It was decided that some stern enforcement of a fire hazard ordinance be called upon. The seldom used ordinance calls for a $500 fine to be placed on those not complying with the law in burning and cleaning out rubbish, trash, papers etc. A team of inspectors will make a spot check of the city, in the near future.

Those belonging to the local club are as follows:

Frenchy Arrell, Earl Breuer, Roy Brimm, Tony Christensen, Ed Dempsey, Les Dimmick, Bob Dimmick, Fred Fox, George Funk, Gordon Goetz, Virgil Goldsberry, Chas. Grayshel, Homer Haggerty, Sam Hall, Lynn Hampton.
