MAX EXPLAINS . . .

By M. S. Brainard

Seeing as how the management of this rat-race-course has neglected or willfully overlooked announcing an addition to their rest-room the writer hereby warns the public that he has contracted to reside over such things as I want to do, Mondays through Fridays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with a re-fueling period vaguely around noontime.

As outlined in the rather voluminous contrast I am supposed to be an entertaining committee, a shield against people keen on mayhem, write, whether I have anything to write about or not, and, if necessary, implore with tears, folks to subscribe to this quote, newspaper, unquote.

Seeing as how this quote, newspaper, unquote came up the inference is that news are (or is) wanted. Because the people in this business have the notion people do things and be very, very secretive about them just to see whether ye editor finds 'em out, hisself, and if he doesn't print 'em on the front page they bleat about it, stop their subscriptions, the sheet folds up and there's some more tramp printers and writers going down the road.

Sooo: if you know anything you'd like to have other folks know, get word to us and then sit back and see what a mess we can really make out of it when we set our minds to it.

I once apologized to the editor of a rather persnickety magazinizing to whom I had sold a story, because I wasn't catty with capitals, punctuation and stuff like that there and he said he paid plenty good money for any good story, and considered the money well spent no matter what shape the story came to him in and that he could hire seads of cheaper help catty as all get out, to do the fancier work.

Write, phone (3725) or tell us anything at all you think folks would be interested in—and be sure to Read All About It by subscribing to: The Brookings-Harbor PILOT!!
