LIBRARY BUILDING GETS PAINTING

Curt Waldien did a good job brush painting under the eaves, and in painting the gables of the library building. Without calling any names, spray painting of the shakes should follow in the not too far distant future and eave troughs installed. The Garden Club landscaping fund is building up and Gary Wimberly is going to get at that just as soon as he possibly can but one can't blame a family man for keeping the supply line of groceries coming along. Gary doesn't want wages but will draw on the fund for gas oil and shrubbery, anyhow.

Many complaints are coming in to both the police and this paper concerning illegal hunting. Most complaints have to do with spot-lighting. Domestic animals have been crippled or killed and one rancher says that his buildings have been shot through.

Some of the complainants know about one irate Curry County rancher, similarly troubled, not so long ago, who first warned against trespassers, making dire threats of what might follow spot-lighting on his land. One party thought the rancher's bark was worse than his bite, but had his mind changed when someone shot a flashlight out of his hand, one evening as he was testing his theory.

This spot-lighter was pretty bitter about it—said the fool ought to be careful or he might accidentally drill somebody!

FISHING LIGHT DURING WEEK

Hewitt's Anchorage reports fishing rather slack, this past week, due to non-cooperation of the tides there being so little difference between high and low tidal water that there has been little runoff from the lower tidal basin. A few jacks have been caught and a dozen or so 18-20 pounders. Nate Klienfelter caught a 38 and a 27 pound fish from his boat, just outside the jaws, so the fish are probably laying there, awaiting the more favorable tides.

Postal Meters Becoming Common

Postal meters, which take the place of licking stamps and attaching to mails, have been purchased by eight Brookings firms, already, and others are showing interest, according to Postmaster "Bill."

With the machines comes a scale for weighing the article to be mailed, if the rate is not known, and an advertising slug which prints alongside the amount being paid for the mailing. "Bill" is just bubbling over with the advantages of having metered mail and suggests any interested people can check with these users: Leonard's Real Estate, Pete Lesmeister, Curry County Lumber, U.S. National Bank, Arthur Knox, Doctors McKenna and Ronniger, South Coast Lumber or Brookings Plywood.

As usual, there is a gimmick to it, Bill finally admitted, there comes a time when one must settle with him, anyhow.

There was a hard frost around Grants Pass, Sunday morning, according to Mrs. Frank Tygart, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Grant Powell, on their ranch. The Powells used to have the place the Turleys now have, down near the Winchuck.

Hello World To Place Marker At Plane Site

Three boys and a girl were welcomed into the world during the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton had a baby boy on September 17th with Dr. Ronniger in attendance.

VISITS BRITISH COLUMBIA Miss June Kennedy returned Wednesday from a two weeks trip to British Columbia. She accompanied Harold Stetzenmeyer and Mrs. Berna Rae.

In February, 1945, a Navy Sea-plane crashed in the South Fork of the Chetco watershed. Eight Navy personnel and an Army lieutenant passenger were killed. The condition of their bodies was such that their remains were buried at the site, the graves not being more than shallow impressions. Later that year, a forest service crew went in, piled rocks on the graves to ward off damage by predators and eight wooden crosses erected. Since that time there has been no care given the graves.

The local V.F.W. post, at its last night's meeting, voted to sponsor having a permanent marker placed on the graves. As the job will require considerable planning it is probable that no work can be done there this year. The veterans are proceeding with the project and look for considerable valuable help from the Explorer Scouts, who have been in there several times.

The reason electricity was off, a week ago, was because the wires connecting the huge transformers at the substation had not been increased in carrying capacity, and Russ was afraid they might get hot and droop, with the ever increasing load.
