BOOSTER NIGHT IS ATTENDED BY CAPACITY CROWD AT GRANGE

A capacity audience enjoyed an excellent "Booster Night" program at the Chetco Grange Hall, last Friday evening. Grange took up promptly, with the processional entry and seating of officers, the precision of the routine showing long practice.

After a welcome to the visitors, Grange Master Fred Gustafson introduced the speaker of the evening, William G. Howe, State Grange Overseer, of Gold Hill Grange who told how the granges grew out of the chaos following the Civil War to restore rural economic and social life. From this small beginning, membership now is reaching toward the million mark. Starting as a rural movement, Mr. Howe said, it is now attracting towns folk, with its nation wide program. He told of national projects made commonplace through the Granges' efforts; pure food and drug laws, the truthful labeling of commodities, rural fire delivery and rural electrification. He re-iterated the Grange's stand on hydro-electric power and emphasized the proven value of the organization's work with young people.

Mr. Howe made special mention of the meeting being started right on time, the excellent drill work and especially the attendance, a count showing nearly 100 members present.

Chetco Grange No. 765 was organized October 10, 1930, with Frank Hassett as the first Master. It met for a few years in a hall on the O. W. Miller (now Herbert Payne) place on the South Bank road, then moved into the present hall on the Highway which was built in the middle 1930's.

Following Mr. Howe's address, 25-year Charter members, Bertha Moore, Frieda Ransom, Hulda Gardner, Benjamin Jones and Vernon Hanscam were escorted to the altar where they were presented quarter century membership pins and certificates by Mr. Howe, Edith Ackley and Joe Zumpfe were also in the group, having previously been awarded their silver pins in other granges. The ladies had beautiful corsages pinned on them.

The meeting was closed with a recessional drill, after which a lunch was served.

The "inner man," having been very well taken care of, the Grangers and guests re-assembled in the hall to enjoy a program arranged by Mrs. Ed Ravekes, lecturer. This started with a demonstration by some of Mrs. Blosson Behee's dance students.

Although the next skit could not be fully appreciated by the younger members of the audience unfamiliar with the cantankerousness of Mr. Ford's famed Model "T" cars, they had a wonderful, animated cartoon by a crew of two ladies, and six men, chauffeured by Ed Ravekes.

A square dance set followed, the four "ladies" discovered to be no ladies at all, much to the audience's surprise. This gay whirl ended when one of the "ladies" unintentionally tangled her all up.

The "ladies" were finally figured out to be Heinie Weigel, Frank Kelley, Birger Dahlstrom, and Joe Zumpfe.

The "Sea-Flats," four harmonizers of the Barbershoppers persuasion, gave out with numbers of definite audience appeal and concluded their part of the program with a brief and pastoral ditty having to do with some lost sheep.

After the entertainment, dancing followed with music by Mr. and Mrs. Heinie Weigel and Dave Crockett.

It was very nice to see Mrs. Sue Benham there. Perhaps no one in the community has been more loyal to the Grange than "Aunt Sue," and her popularity is attested by her having been the center of many, many greetings, among them especially, her long time neighbors Mrs. Bertha Moore and Alvin Woodruff, Sr. Mr. Woodruff's solo did more than his part for a bang-up Irish solo, and being first, and last on the floor for every dance.
