FISHING NEWS — Tentative angling regulations submitted by the State Game Commission propose to cut down the limit of steelhead and cutthroat trout, not less than 12 inches in length, to two fish per day and not over 4 in any seven consecutive days. This is recommended because of heavy angling pressure on the Rogue and the runs are in danger of being over fished.

The report states that in view of the continued up-trend of the Spring salmon runs on the Umpqua, the season is extended 25 days, closing on June 10th, instead of March 31, as heretofore. The proposed regulations for the Rogue continue: Chinook salmon, including jacks, exclusive of tributaries below Mule Creek, March 25 to November 30; above Mule Creek, January 15 to July 15. Silver salmon, including jacks, Rogue and Illinois, below Pomeroy Dam, exclusive of tributaries, August 15 to November 15.

Willow Creek reservoir may be opened to angling between April 28 and October 7.

The above are all proposed regulations and NOT the final ones.

The association has for distribution an order of 100,000 folders costing $6,450. A great saving was made when the Agency Lithograph Co. of Portland contributed the four-color front cover of the folder and the HIGHWAY MEETINGS — County meetings for the promotion of membership in the Coast Highway Association will soon begin with Bandon-Coquille slated for February 29; Port Orford, March 1; Gold Beach, March 2; Brookings, March 3; and Crescent City-Smith River March 4th. All meetings are planned for evenings and it is hoped that television film will be completed, with commentary and sound, by that time, so all members will have the opportunity of seeing it.

State Travel Information Bureau of the Highway Department contributed the back cover, and estimated saving of some $1500. Users of the travel guide are asked to only order sufficient to last them until June 1st, and re-order later. The Association is contemplating a contest for a slogan truly descriptive of the scenic beauty along the Oregon Coast. Although the plan is not yet matured, the association manager, Verne Ayers said he's open for bids. Address: SLOGANS, OREGON COAST ASSOCIATIONS, Chamber of Commerce Building, Newport, Oregon.
