

There is not much good to be said for the weather of the past two weeks except that there has been a lot of it. Naturally, it happens just when I am trying to impress some one too. I am sure that if I write something nasty about the weather, that by the time the paper goes to press the sun will be shining. I'm counting on it.

We heard where the Lions club members were kicking in a little money to start a bank account whenever a member has a new arrival in the family. Bud and I tried to interest the Rotary Club on doing the same thing—on a larger scale, of course—but got turned down. They must think we have an axe to grind or something.

There is a letter in another part of the Pilot, giving us need for taking picks at the ambulance committee. I'm sure that we weren't mad at them personally. We felt that the way it was it just wasn't doing anybody any good. We pointed out in an editorial some months ago our feelings more precisely. We felt that the old committee did a fine job, and should be commended rather than criticized—but at the same time the committee wasn't functioning, and the ambulance wasn't functioning. Sure we stirred things up, and we had to stick our neck out to do it. After all that is our job, at least we think it's our job.
