LIBRARY WORK
It has been pretty rough for the volunteer workers at the library, during the recent bad weather, but the "open" hours have been kept and the patronage has justified the efforts. On two Friday evenings, especially, it was not very pleasant.
With sufficient break in the weather the board believes work on the grounds will be progress but the grading, sidewalks, the parking area and general improving, of course, has been out of the question, here of late.
Many new books have been added to the shelves, and especially volumes for children which, as usual, circulate faster than those in the adult sections. There have been several contributions of good books, a tabulation of which is in the works.

LOCATING RED MOUNTAIN
Red Mountain, on the Klamath River, where two TV technicians are presumed to have lost their lives, is plainly visible from Brookings. It is the high, melon-shaped elevation a little to the East of South, usually snow covered early in the season and the last to lose its snow cap.

KLAMATH FLOODWATERS
To get another idea of how high the Klamath River came up during the December flood, just drive off to one side of the approach and note the drift still cradled in the arches. There are two or three good sized sawlogs in the debris sticking out on either side of the bridge.

NEW HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Patterson are getting along well with new suburban residence at the extreme end of Lundeen Road. As soon as the plaster dries, they will be doing the interior trim.

CRISSEY'S TRAVELLING
Mr. and Mrs. Will Crissey left early in the week for the valley where they will visit relatives and friends. It will be a change for them as Will hasn't been feeling too well.
