HARBOR NEWS

The Winchuck Women's Club held the first of the summer picnics at the Azalea State Park, on June 17th, as the Club holds picnics during the summer instead of the regular meetings. The last regular meeting was held May 31st at the home of Mrs. Buelah Keiser, with the president, Zella May, presiding, Margaret Steinmetz won the hostess gift, and a social hour with refreshments closed the afternoon. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Anna Oldham on September 27th.

The members of the Club gave a surprise house warming for Mrs. Elizabeth Wimberly at her new home on Spruce Street in Brookings. An enjoyable time was spent by the group, with a gift for the new home being given Mrs. Wimberly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stevens returned to their home in Portland Sunday after bringing Mrs. Stevens' mother Mrs. A. H. Newton home from her months visit with them. Mr. Newton, who had also been to their home on a visit, had returned a couple of weeks ago.

Mrs. Lee Perez suffered a very severe fracture of the knee and leg when she fell off the porch of her home on Ocean View Drive a week ago Tuesday. The leg is now in a cast and Mrs. Perez will have to be very careful to keep it from shifting under the cast, as the bones were broken in several places.

Mrs. Sam Dotson, son Sammy, and her mother, Mrs. Estelle Garrard, left Wednesday on a several weeks vacation trip that will take them over a large part of the United States. They plan to camp out wherever it is possible to do so.

Mrs. V. E. Anderson is spending this week in Los Angeles visiting at the home of her son, Victor Anderson Jr. She made the trip south last Thursday as far as San Francisco with Junior Hanscom and Don Clausen in their plane, then continued on south by the regular airliner.

HERE FROM KANSAS

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton W. Libby, whose home is in Ness City, Kansas, are visiting their grandson's family here, the Byron H. Libbys. Bryon and wife brought the elders down from Florence this past week end, where they had been visiting.

FOREST SERVICE ROADS UNDERWAY

A great deal of Forest Service access roads activity is reported in the South Fork of the Smith River country. Work in progress or to be undertaken includes development of some 45 to 50 miles of roadway, leading to 199, and other bridges across Hurdy Gurdy Creek and further up, nearer Big Flat, crossing the main South Fork.

These roads are designed to give access to a sustained yield forest area where some 21 million feet, mostly fir, is slated for harvest, and to a huge block of timber in what is known as the Jones Ridge country, eastward of Big Flat where the forest service is readying a large block of timber for sale this fall.

The Pacific Northwest Arts and Crafts Association announces the Tenth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair to be held in the Bellevue Square, July 27, 28 and 29. As usual, all work submitted must be original and for sale. Interested artists are invited to enter their works, oils, water-colors, prints or drawings—for exhibition. A qualified jury will select 100 paintings to hang in a special "Juror's Choice" section. Remaining paintings will be exhibited on easels under the marquees in Bellevue Square. The jury made awards totaling $1500 for the 1955 Fair. Applications for entry may be obtained by writing to the above address. Visitors to the 3-day festival will have opportunity to enjoy the paintings as well as an excellent crafts section, sculpture, Northwest's author's bookstall and nightly concerts of original music contemporary northwest composers.

NEW MINING LAW

Copies of the new mining law, enacted by Congress July 23, 1955, in simplified form, may be had from the Regional Forester, Box 4137, Portland 8, Oregon. This law clarifies the rights both above and below the surface of public lands administered by the Department of Agriculture and Bureau of Land Management of the Department of Interior but not in the National Parks or National Monuments, nor on Indian Lands.

AQUATICS

Sunday, we witnessed thrilling water sports in the lagoons between Orick and Trinidad. Hundreds of pleasure craft skimmed the waters, many of the boats towing water skiers, several of whom were "dunked." In a way, the sports were more thrilling than conventional races. At least, there was a greater variety, without waits. Although the sky was cloudless there was just enough of a breeze on the water to add to the thrills. And, there are miles and miles of parking, with the lagoons on one side and the beaches on the other. Lots and lots of little folks paddled in the shallows, at the lagoon edges having the time of their lives and safe from the worries of their elders.

STATE FLOWER SHOW SLATED

The Flower Show, at the state fair, this year, will be non-competitive, according to Mrs. Jack Bartlett, of Brooks, superintendent. This non-competitive feature is expected to make the garden and flower exhibit exceed all other showings in that line. About 25 gardens will be in the show this year, representing about $40,000 in value, it is said.

A large number of begonia exhibitors will be on hand, this year and a greater number of chrysanthemums and geraniums is also scheduled.

The popular Professional Arrangements and Composition division will be repeated, this year. The flower arrangements by some 18 professional florists are of the type usually seen in florist shop windows, according to Mrs. Curtis Wright, superintendent of the show.

CURRY COWS WIN HONORS

At the National Jersey Meeting, held at Springfield, Mo., where breeders from 35 states and 3 foreign countries met to compare notes on this breed of dairy cattle, Opal Crystal Lady, a 14-year old Jersey cow owned by Ralph E. Cope, Jr., of Langlois, was named living lifetime producer of the Jersey breed. The special certificate awarded her owner credited her with a lifetime production of 181,022 pounds of milk containing 9,714 pounds of fat, in 3,654 days. She was the first cow of any breed to produce over 1,000 pounds of fat on twice-daily milking during each of five successive lactations.

WORLD LUMBER USERS

Canadians top the use, per capita, of lumber. Each Canadian requiring 284 board feet; with New Zealanders the next highest at 280. U. S. Citizens average 246 board feet, per annum and Norwegians, 212. Italians use 25 and Venezuelans, the lowest of the list, only 17 board feet a year.

Field and garden pests that feed on plant roots are forcing rapid expansion underground chemical warfare by growers of high-cost ornamental and other specialty crops, Oregon State college scientists report.

Chemical control measures this summer will be largely on valuable lands near cities where specialty growers are combating the destructive pests with soil fumigation chemicals and equipment ranging from hand-operated

Soil fumigants—liquid chemicals that turn to deadly gases when released beneath the surface—are popular weapons used against such pests as nematodes, symphylids, and certain insects that eat roots.

One of the big problems, say the scientists, is equipment to assure evenly-spread dosage of chemicals.

A new OSC experiment station bulletin "Soil Fumigation Equipment for Nematode Control" has been prepared by Glen Page, agricultural engineer, and Harold Jensen, nematologist. Included in the bulletin are construction plans of an experimental power-drawn applicator developed by Page. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained from county extension agents or the OSC bulletin at Corvallis.
