Hoopa Whoopee On Fourth of July

There'll be an all night long Indian Dance, part of the Fourth of July celebration, at Hoopa. The Indian Brush Dance will begin on the night of the third with two dances. There'll be none on the night of the Fourth but on the fifth, according to ancient tradition, the dance will last all night and until after sun-up the following morning.

Most of the holiday events will be slanted toward securing funds for a hospital or clinic available to the residents of the back country in Klamath and Trinity area. Something will be going on for all four days.

FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH

By CLIFFORD P. ROWE

I love to hear a man talk about his business. In spite of the fact that in some past age someone formulated the philosophy that it wasn't in good taste to talk shop, I still find the most interesting conversation to be those concerned with topics pertinent to the daily chere.

I have even tried to figure out for myself why it should ever have been forbidden in good society to talk about the problems which come up daily in earning one's livelihood. The only conclusion I have reached so far is that several generations back it was felt that one would lose respect of his fellow-man if he let him in on the secret that he had to work for a living.

Such can hardly be the case today. Most people, whom I know, are pretty proud of the fact that they have a steady income. Not only that, but they are so interested in getting ahead in life that they find their concern for their work cannot be confined within the limits of an eight hour day.

Nor do I feel that a conversation need be boring just because the other fellow is in a different line of endeavor. He may even have a technical language all of his own, but I will glean enough from what he says to get an understanding of and an appreciation for his contribution to society.

Just the other day, I listened to some business men discussing the problems relative to collecting past due bills. From them I learned that the prompt payment of bills on the part of customers many times means the difference between profit or loss. I had never thought of their problem in exactly that light before; now I am certain that I will be more aware of their problems.

Similarly, I always enjoy listening in when the good wife and some of her friends, who are nurses, also, get together to exchange shop talk. I am confident that if more people could hear their opinions, there wouldn't be so many inconsiderate heels making pests of themselves when confined to a hospital bed.

When one comes right down to it, most of us know very little about the other fellow. That is why I consider it a blessing when he is kind enough to let me in on his dreams and aspirations. And, in addition, it gives me the excuse to talk about my own.

A warning has been given by the state police against fictitious checks. With more people moving about, the chances of a rubber check shaver are better and the chances of connecting up with him are slimmer.

Democrats voted in the U.S. Senatorial race and 27,000 more Republicans than Democrats in the governorship event. When it came to Congressman from the 4th Oregon district, the difference in party vote was only 753 in favor of Ellsworth, Republican, of the 58,000 total votes cast in this bracket.

Arline Sanders Is Married

Arline Marie Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dall O. Sanders, of Brookings, and Donald Francis Hillecke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Hillecke, Hillsboro, were married recently at 9 a.m. at the St. Matthew Catholic Church in Hillsboro. Rev. E. Larsen officiated.

Miss Lorna Kummer was the organist, while Raymond Van Dyke, as a soloist sang Ava Maria, The Lord's Prayer and On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother.

The bride was beautifully dressed in a white nylon net over a taffeta gown, with a rose point lace bodice. Her veil was seed pearl with lace leaves.

She carried a white orchid stephanotis streamers on a prayer book. The maid of honor was Miss Diana Bowlin, Medford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bowlin, of Harbor. She wore a blue crystalline street length dress, and carried white sweet pea, and pink rosebud flowers.

Mrs. Robert Marchino, Hillsboro, a sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid, along with Miss Joyce Vanderzaden, Hillsboro, a cousin of the groom.

The best man was Vernon Hillecke, brother of the groom, and also of Hillsboro. The groomsmen were Pvt. Merlo Peters, U. S. Army, Camp Hanford, Verle Peters, Forest Grovt, twin cousins of the groom. Ushers were Dave Eischen and Dan Nering, both of Cornelius.

The church was decorated with pink and white peonies, blue delphiniums and rose buds.

A reception followed the ceremony at St. Matthews school cafeteria. Miss Helen Peters poured, while Mrs. Adlai Linen-good, aunt of the bride and Miss Minnie Peters cut the cake. Mrs. Gary Krahrmer, and Mrs. Dave Eischen served punch.

Miss Doris Anderson was in charge of the guest book, while Miss Berna Peters, and Miss Susan Mann handled the many gifts.

The young couple left after the wedding on a honeymoon trip into California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah and Idaho. Their future home will be in Hillsboro, Route 4.

Williams Is Convo. Delegate

Delos D. Williams, superintendent of the Brookings Schools, is representing Curry County, as it's delegate at the National Education Convention being held in Portland. The only other Curry Representatives are Mrs. Wilma Smith, Brookings, who is a member of the Credentials Committee and also Ralph Fowler, Brookings, on the International Relations Committee.

The convention, the 94th, is expected to draw some 10,000 educators from all over the country and some from abroad. Wilfred Burgess, principal of the Crook County High School is state president of the Oregon group, comprising of some 13,000 Oregon educators.

Oregon's annual lumber output is enough to build 800,000 five-room houses.

Saw a little girl pick a wild "tiger" lily, carry it a hundred yards or so, whip the blooms off, and throw it away. Too bad! That bulb will probably die. At least it is badly injured. There will be no seeds to perpetuate the parent and possibly lots and lots of nice people won't see that specimen. Time was, not so long ago, when we had a profusion of wild lilies some of which we've cleanly exterminated.

ORCHIDS—

Inquiry in the Coffee Mill regarding a startling orchid bloom brought up the dope that "Ethel" grew it and she grew other, different orchids that have been shown there. "Ethel" is Mrs. Jackson—used to be Mrs. Jim Frazier, before Jim passed on. She sure can raise orchids!
