School Bells Are About To Buzz Again

Written by Brookings School Officials

We no longer hear the school bell ring but the buzzer informs our boys and girls that summer play must end, and school work will begin. As parents, we need to remind ourselves that ours is a significant role—to help our children for their job of learning.

How do we encourage them? Do we prod too much and encourage too little? All people don't learn at the same rate nor are they ready to read fluently at the same age.

A child's physical well-being is all important. Diseased tonsils, dental caries and lack of immunizations may keep him out of school, retard his progress, and surely cause discomfort and unhappiness. Of equal importance are well established health habits. Good food and eating habits, cleanliness, active outdoor exercise and proper rest top the list.

Beginners, particularly, as well as older pupils find it much easier to adjust to school conditions if they come from parents who say: "Yes, we have helped our child to establish self-reliance, confidence, ability to make his own decisions and to respect authority.

Our job—to prepare our children to become tomorrow's leaders and parents is all important and surely our most rewarding task.

FIGURES LIED
 Last week we ran a story that around 50 people had been served by the Brookings-Harbor Walking Blood Bank. The number, according to Frenchie Arrell, and he should know, is much closer to 150 in whose blood now flows that of their neighbors—registered donors whom he was able to locate. If you are a donor and have moved or now have a phone please report, immediately to Chetco Drug, where you can be reached.

Thursday with cards, afterwards. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moss of Crescent City, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Miller, Mrs. Laura Redfield and Mrs. Flora Webber.

Mrs. M. Harrison of Baker and her daughter of New Meadows, Idaho, visited over night with her son, Carl, then leaving for Redport to visit another daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kelly arrived this past week at Columbus, Ga. where Mr. Kelly will be stationed at Ft. Benning. Mrs. Kelly is the former Anna Jean Gardner.

Central Gate Is Worked On

What owner Elmer Bankus refers to a "Central Gate," is being given a going over for potential business sites. The once huge hill, called Moore's Butte, already cut down, will probably be removed entirely, Bankus said.

The fill from the butte will be pushed into the gully adjacent to it, and two additional business locations will be available with highway frontage. A culvert is being installed currently in the gully in preparation for the fill.

Across the street a cat has been leveling off a large portion of land, adjacent to the Wranglers property, between it and the highway which will also be available for business property.

The Dawes twin girls and their sister now have a little brother to watch over. Donald Curtis, 9 lb., arrived Monday at the Donald Dawes' home.

Walking Blood Bank Donors Register

If you had been that fourteenth donor whose blood was required to justify the thirteen before you, who contributed to Don Ross, how would you feel had you failed to have registered where you could now be located? We are repeating in this week's Pilot the request that all donors of the Brookings-Harbor Walking Blood Bank contact the Chetco Drug and let them know where you live and your phone number, if any. Also, young people who have now reached the donor age of 18, since they were typed should follow Sylvia Gates, the first one in this category to check in. Sylvia's name is now added to those ready to aid the needy when they are in most need of consideration by their fellow mortals and referring to the list, the proper people know where to find her.

As it now stands, the register of blood donors is an aggregation, in an emergency, hundreds of names are being culled by the ladies of the VFW from the old lists due to people dying or moving and attempting to locate available donors is just so much time wasted when a fellow human being is in distress. If you are a donor, or have now reached the donor age of 18, PLEASE check in with the master list, Chetco Drug, immediately. Remember that necessary fourteenth donor that saved Don's life! And remember, Don little knew any more than you now do, those fourteen pints of blood would be necessary to save him.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dick of Winlock, Washington spent a few days last week visiting his sister, Mrs. "Pop" Russel on Parkview Drive.

The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Castle of Billings, friends of the groom.
