Curry County to Exhibit at State Fair

Curry county's exhibit for the state fair is taking shape fast. For many years now the county has set up a booth at the state fair which features the products and interests of the county.

Among the exhibits to be shown this year are myrtlewood pieces from the State Line Shop, canned fish and gift-wrapped sea foods from the Cedar Lane Cannery. Birger Dahlstrom is providing a bulb display and Ed Ravekes a lumber and plywood exhibit. Gold Beach is responsible for the dairy part of the booth and Langlois has a fine cheese exhibit. Oliver Bettis of Gold Beach is also providing a lumber display.

The background of the booth will feature salmon fishing as a tourist attraction. On the poster which forms the background for the booth will be a fisherman in his boat landing a gigantic salmon.

The state fair which is held at Salem runs from September 1-8. Approximately 35 to 40 thousand people from all over the world take in the fair each day. What better way is there to publicize Curry County?

Curry County Fair Wins Award

Folks from Curry county received quite a surprise last week when a representative from the State Fair Board Association presented Clarence Brooks, president of the fair board, an award for the "most representative fair in the state."

The award, a purple grand champion's was presented at the Queen's Banquet. The Curry county fair was described as "just what a fair ought to be", by the official who had spent the day touring the fair. There was a great increase in the number of entries this year, a total of 2,016 exhibits were entered.

PHILLIPS OFF

Al and Marguerite Phillips left Monday morning, with their two boys, on a camping trip. Up to the moment they drove out of town they weren't sure where they were going—just planning to follow their radiator cap. It's said Marge dissuaded Al from taking in Disneyland, as she hankered for some rest—for Al, at least.

MRS. TIERCE HOME

Mrs. Maude Tierce is back to her Brookings home after spending a couple of months with her son, "Bill" and family at Santa Rosa. She reports "Bill" driving truck for a furniture store.

COP BACK

Bud Cress, general chief of the Brookings City Police, is back from a sizzling vacation, down around Marysville, where he visited his Ma, and other kin.

HAMER'S GUEST

Mrs. Alice Roche of London is visiting old friends, the Harmers, at their home just below the station. Mrs. Roche has been in America before but never on this part of the coast. She has fallen in love with it and plans to remain.

ALBERT JOY TRIPPING

Albert Joy left Wednesday for an extended vacation about as far east as he can go and still be in the United States. With his daughter and her husband, he is flying to a son's home at Arlington, Va. From there they will take a leisurely trip with the island of Nantucket their objective. Nantucket, off the Massachusetts shore, is the old original American home of Mr. Joy's ancestors, and Albert expects to find there some more of their relics. Mr. Joy plans to be gone a month, if he has any plans at all.

HEWITT'S GUESTS

Visitors at the L. O. Hewitt's Harbor, are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Arzner of Lakeview and Mrs. Hewitt's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Arzner, and Mrs. Hewitt's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Post of Buhl, Idaho. The elder Arzners are over primarily to admire the awards of their granddaughter, Shirley, who made quite a cleanup of ribbons at the county fair and is keenly looking forward to her trip to the state fair at Salem.

ANNUAL BAZAAR DATED

Date for the annual bazaar of St. Timothy's Guild has been set for Saturday, October 13, according to Mrs. Pauline Freeman who asks any who wants to know how they may help can phone her at 4754.

VIRGIL CLARK EXPLORING

Virgil Clark, associated with the stumpage end of Brookings, has been out prospecting. His travels have taken him into the rough Craggs country around the headwaters of the Chetco, and over into the Illinois River watershed. Virgil was last in that area some 20 years ago, when working for the forest service.

Billy Saterfield In Outstanding Crew

John Satterfield of Harbor can feel justly proud of his son, Al, Billy Saterfield who is member of a seventeen man crew of a B-36 bomber which is making high altitude tests from Ellsworth Air Force Base in Kansas. He is a member of Crew 8-16 of the 718th Bombing Squadron.

His crew was designated as Ellsworth Flying Safety Crew of the month this spring. Their B-36 Bomber was flown to an altitude of 50,000 feet or over nine miles above sealevel. This extremely high altitude was necessary to flight test a new development in bombing and navigational radar. They were cited as the crew of the month for the successful preparation and completion of this test project. The crew had been trained previously at Fairchild Air Force Base, Washington for this type of work, the training taking place in pressurized high altitude chambers.

Mr. Satterfield enjoyed a recent two weeks visit from his son when he was on leave. Billy was twenty two on the 16th of this month, and has been in the Air Force about three years.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:
Being a newcomer here I hesitated about writing this letter. However, since we plan to make this community our home, I feel bound to do so.

Upon arriving here about three months ago, it was with no little concern that I learned this community was sorely lacking in hospital facilities. There was a rumor to the effect, however, that a hospital was being considered.

It was with consternation that I read in the Pilot someone had objected on the grounds that this community could not support a hospital at this time. Thus the issue was shelved for another year.

It would not be difficult to pick out any number of cities or communities smaller than this one with hospital facilities.

True, there is a hospital in a city twenty-seven miles away, (a city with less population than Brookings) but how long will they be able to accommodate the needs of this community? Are they not as overcrowded as we are?

According to an article in the Pilot recently, the population of Brookings has gained 100% in four years to 3,063 (this of course does not include any of the surrounding community). This rise in population is expected to continue for some time. Are we to assume then that our neighboring city will expand their hospital facilities to accommodate our continued rise in population?

It is also true that we have Mercy Flights available to fly a patient 'out' should the need arise. A very wonderful service, indeed, but how many of us could afford to or have the time to go to Portland, Salem, etc., to be with our friends or loved ones?

Would not a local hospital be a great boon to everyone in this community, particularly our local doctors? It is no secret they are overworked and driving themselves night and day to administer to the ailing of this community.

With government surplus hospital equipment and supplies reported to be available at no cost other than perhaps the freight, to any city or community having a need for it, should it not be taken advantage of before it's too late?

What is the reason this community can not support a hospital at this time? I have asked several persons and they are very much in favor of a hospital but are in the dark also, as to why it is inadvisable to think of one at the present time.

Complacency in an individual, or a community can bring about long lasting, unwanted, ill effects.

It would be interesting to know how local inhabitants feel about a hospital here. Perhaps an unofficial poll or questionnaire of some sort would be enlightening.

What is your opinion, neighbor?
Sincerely,
Lee Morse

Sure has been a swapping around of logging trucks, locally, lately. A whole new derk of names are on the rigs hauling through town including O'Brien, Port Orford, Gold Beach, etc.
