SMITH RIVER CUT-OFF IN GOOD CONDITION

People have been saying the Smith River cut-off is in terrible shape but it will be found in the best condition ever. It has been resurfaced all the way from the north end of the Dr. Fine Bridge clear through to Houchi on 199, and probably better time can be made on it than using the new speedway to 199 and then wind back to Houchi. There has been heavy redwood logging just past the old Peacock ranch but makes no difference in brisk travel.

NEW FORESTRY LAB

Work on the site for the new home of the Oregon Forest Products laboratory and the Forest Lands research agency is underway along the Philomath Road, east of Corvallis. The structure to cost $400,000 is scheduled to be ready next June. Two buildings are planned one with 40,000 square feet, as a work shop, and an office building of 13,000 sq. ft. The agencies are supported by a severance tax of 4 cents per thousand board feet harvested in the state.
