Masons May Conduct Corner Stone Laying

It appears probable that the corner stone of the new Curry county court house at Gold Beach may be laid under the auspices of the Masonic lodges of Oregon. The state Grand Master has been asked if he would conduct the services and is reported to have said he would providing it can be fitted into his extensive program.

It is pointed out that it has been customary, at least since the founding of this country, to have many public building dedicated by the Masonic fraternity and in a letter appearing in last week's Gold Beach paper, County Judge Guy Forsyth recommends considering such a dedication.

Judge Forsyth states that in the cornerstone of the court house will be placed a copper container in which will be placed several contemporary items, possibly including rosters of all the organizations in the county.
