studies in the west showing 25 to 35 percent of the birds examined carrying body shot.

Cutting down this loss with consequent better hunting may be achieved if the hunters would shoot only at birds at a reasonably close range. When you miss clean. Over decoys, let the birds come in; use a retrieving dog; learn to know your gun and your ammunition; above all, be a sportsman in the true sense of the word. A crippled bird can not breed and suffers a terrible death, both due to the trigger and the "hunter".

SPIDERS ON THE GO

This past week end have you observed the countless feet, yards rods, miles of spider silk streaming out from almost every conceivable object. For some reason or other the crotters seem to have been stimulated into over production of silk. But maybe you have only noticed their speedy activities almost everywhere indoors too.
