PIPE DREAMS . . .

By Joe Murphy

Now tell me, oh natives of Oregon, when did we ever have such a beautiful month of November as this has been? With only two or three exceptions each day has been bathed in sunshine. Not a drop of rain has fallen the entire month of November. Thanksgiving day, old Joe and the four oldest youngsters simply lolled around the beach. Even Monday I saw two young ladies walking around in front of Franks Pharmacy barefooted.

It's mighty hard to get into the Christmas swing, with barefeet pattering down Chetco Ave.

People must be getting the idea that its tough to collect a bill in Curry county, what with two credit bureaus opening up in two weeks. I suppose the collection agency boys can work together. One agency man can take the front door, and the second bureau man can slip around to the back to make sure that their prospective client doesn't get away.

That football forecast page was a fine promotion, and people sure had a lot of enthusiasm for prognosticating the games. We probably had over 100 entries in the last week—which even included a few women that admitted that they knew nothing about football, but were just going on the law of averages. What with the upsets, they were probably among the winners.

Bill Preisinger, new operator of the Cliff House is a Wisconsin man, but he doesn't know how to play sheephead. So it still leaves Bud and I as the only sheephead players in the community. Between not playing sheephead, and the procrastination of the high school faculty on the basketball game Bud and I have absolutely no recreation. We'll be getting paunchy.

THE WEATHER

With most of the country freezing and getting snowed in, Brookings enjoys some of its finest weather. The temperatures have remained constant near the 60's as maximum and never below 35 for the minimum. The latter low is usually during the night. No traces of precipitation have been reported by the weather bureau.

VFW and Auxiliary Plan Activities

After not holding a meeting on November 21 due to it being the night before Thanksgiving, the VFW Post and its Auxiliary will hold a business meeting the first Wednesday evening in December, the 5th. There will be an exchange of Secret Pal Christmas gifts at this meeting as the second meeting night of the month, December 19, will be the Christmas party in which all the VFW and Auxiliary members and their families will take part.

The Christmas cards sold each year by the VFW Auxiliary members are at the House of Shoes where Mrs. Amber Campbell is in charge of them. The money raised from the sale of these cards goes into the Relief Fund of the Auxiliary, with most of it going to the Camp White Domiciliary and the Roseburg Veterans hospital to be used for the veterans who are patients there.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beaulieu returned Saturday from spending Thanksgiving with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller at Corvallis.

Wm. Clark Takes Final Winning

Participation in the final football contest, sponsored by the Gold Arrow merchants reached an all time high during the final week, and caused some consternation in the ranks of the judges.

One man, William Clark, was first with only two losses. He picked the Minnesota-Wisconsin tie, but missed on the Pittsburg-Penn State tie, and the California-Stanford game.

Eleven others had only three losers—most of them on the two tie games, with a lot falling down on the Cal upset over Stanford.

Because of the variety in the prizes the judges had to have a drawing among the eleven second place winners to see who gets what and where.

Clark gets a $15 grocery order at Hi-way Mkt. for his top selection, Second is Sammy Coy, Box 397, who should pick up a $14.95 Lady Rough Rider skirt at Shehans Clothing. Next, Ann Dawson wins a $10 gift certificate at Harolds Jewelry. Next, Paul Williams gets a pair of Naturalizer shoes at Goulds Shoe store. Tauni Samuel, Box 1087 won a $10 gift certificate at Brookings Hardware-Par store.

Paul Eide wins a $5.00 gift certificate at Eva Lee's Dress shop for Lorraine, Caroline Putman wins a $5 Carter Baby wear at Tots to Teens. Mrs. Lola Nichols wins a free portrait sitting at Brookings Studio. Ann Nelson wins a free passenger car lube at Richmonds Shell station. Bob Dimnick wins a free suit cleaned at Christensens Cleaners.

The other two second place winners, Josephine Owens and Kenneth Henderickson will have to take pot luck at Highway, where the Gold Arrow man said several prizes still are left. All of the winners are to pick up the prizes at the merchants listed.

new businessmen's group is formed in Brookings

A new businessmen's group was formed here last week and plans are under way to have a big promotion for the Brookings area for the Christmas season. According to an ad, in another part of this issue of the Pilot, the group will award a trip for an adult and child to Disneyland among other prizes totaling about $800.

The new group, called the Brookings Businessmen's Association, is headed up by Gordon Olson, who was elected president at the organizations initial meeting at the old city hall Friday night. Other officers elected were Jim Yelton, vice president, and Amber Campbell, secretary-treasurer.

Kick-off night is set for Friday night, when the first weekly award will be given. Also most of the participating merchants are giving a $5.00 gift certificate each week to winners. The plans are to give tickets to shoppers, which will entitle them to a chance to win.

The Disneyland trip will include airplane tickets there and back plus a helicopter trip from the airport direct to Disneyland, tickets into the amusement park, plus a meal allowance.

All Brookings stores will be open Friday nights, beginning this week, until Christmas. The names of the participating stores are on the advertisement.

First home basketball test due next Tuesday night

18 Year Old Boys Must Register

Boys who have reached the age of 18, must register for Selection Service within five days of that date, according to Lt. Col. Charles E. Fitch, who was in Brookings Wednesday.

Col. Fitch reported that boys can register at either Eva Lee's Dress Shop, with Mrs. Eva Lee Long or with Mrs. Ima Elliott at the Telephone office on Chetco Ave.

VISITS PARENTS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kemnitzer and children of Klamath Falls visited with Mrs. Kemnitzer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Baumgartner during the Thanksgiving holidays. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kemnitzer are instructors in Physical education at the Klamath Falls Junior high. Mr. Kemnitzer is also Dean of Boys at the school.

Negotiations Completed

Negotiations have finally been completed for additional school property on Easy Street and Fern Ave. The school officials announced that they acquired six and a half acres of land from three separate parties, Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. McAdams and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Payne.

It is hoped that the land acquired would eventually be developed into the activity area, such as a football field, baseball and softball diamond and track.

Mrs. Victor Reynolds thinks that she caught the largest steelhead yet this year. Last Wednesday she brought in a 16 and one-half pounder which was 38 inches in length. As to where she caught it, you will have to ask her as these fishermen and fishermen are a little careful in telling just where they had their good luck.

Three Persons Miss Injury In Forced Landing of Plane

PTA to Feature Scouts Dec. 6th

The Girl and Boy Scouts will be presented by the Brookings-Harbor PTA at the next meeting to be held on December 6.

According to Mrs. Mable Thompson and Mrs. Bobbie Upp, the children have been working like little beavers to bring the public a delightful and entertaining program. The girls chorus will sing carols, and perform a humorous skit and also scouting for all.

The Brownies are all ready to bring to the group the Brownie Store. Not to be outdone by the girls, the boys are still keeping their plans a secret.

Now all of the parents may not wish to sit and listen to speakers but who can resist children who try so hard to please?

A serious accident was narrowly missed Tuesday, when a plane, flown by Junior Hanscam, in an emergency effort to get a patient to Portland, had to crash land on a prairie about three miles up the Winchuck river.

Passengers in the plane were Dr. David Brown, and his patient Everett Jagers, who suffered a skull fracture in an earlier accident.

According to Hanscam the plane damage was severe, but it could be repaired. He said that it was covered by insurance. None of the occupants were injured seriously, although Pilot Hanscam suffered several scratches on his face.

Hanscam said that he checked by auto up the Winchuck river twice before taking the plane up, to see if it was clear. However, in the 45 minutes it took to load Jagers in the plane and take off the fog rolled in. Hanscam flew trying to escape the fog, and was in the clear when he decided to put it down on the pasture rather than fight through the fog.

He said that the plane wasn't flying any faster than about 50 miles per hour when it hit, stopping almost immediately. Except for it being an emergency flight, Hanscam said that he wouldn't have taken the plane off the ground.

Jagers suffered a skull fracture at the Oregon-Washington Veneer mill at 9 a.m. Tuesday, when he was hit by a board on the side of the head. It knocked him out, and he was bleeding from the ear. He had had a metal plate in his head from a service injury.

His doctor, Dr. Brown, decided that he should be taken to a brain surgeon in Portland, and enlisted the aid of Hanscam.

Following the plane accident, Hanscam walked back to the road and got help to get Jagers out. He was then taken to Crescent City and flown up to Portland from there.

The plane was a Tri-Pacer, bought just a few months ago, and kept in the hanger at Crissie State Line field. The plane started from the field at about noon Tuesday.

Second Credit Bureau Opens

A second credit bureau have announced their appearance on the Curry county scene — just two weeks after the advent of a first agency.

The second organization is called the Credit Bureau of Curry County, and they are already in Brookings looking for a location. According to a letter from Francis W. Smith, president of the group, the new business will be the 26th member of the Credit Breaus System, and it will be a local corporation, set "up to particularly handle the credit needs of Curry county", and will be staffed, as far as possible with local people.

It will supply all the same services as are supplied by the other 25 offices, including Credit Guides reporting, protection and collections. They reported that the collection files on the Curry county area will be transferred to the new office, giving it an immediate ability to be of service.

Smith said that their sources of information indicated to them that in 1956 Curry county would pass the point in over-all business volume to warrant them putting in such an office, and planned the office for January, but their schedule was moved up.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Redfield and children of Klamath Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Raymond of San Lorenzo, California were here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Pierce for the holiday.

Clyde Wood Exhibit at Studio

Serigraphy, or the art of silk screen printing, will be the theme of Clyde Wood's one-man exhibit at the Pelican Bay Art Association studio, Fern and Hemlock streets. The exhibit will hang from Saturday, December 1st thru Monday, December 3rd.

Mr. Wood, a Los Angeles artist, is considered one of the leading silk screen artists on the west coast. His work tends towards the abstract vein. Many of his prints show the experimental tendencies of the artist "towards his media. Various types of inks and paints are used to achieve brilliantly arranged color effects. Several of the same designs are treated in different color combinations and it is interesting to see the variations on a theme an artist can achieve. Wood, many of you readers* will remember, wrote several articles on, "Art in Every Day Life" for the Pilot. Wood is an artist's artist. That is, he is constantly searching for new ways* to express himself, not at all interested in falling into sterile "picture making". His pioneering in expressive form gives inspiration to many of his fellow artist who go on from Wood's initial statements and find expression along other forms.

Gallery viewers will enjoy the fresh new approach to art when they attend this fine show. The gallery will be open Saturday, Sunday and Monday from two til eight. Many of the works are for sale.
