NELLIE BUSH NAMED JUDGE

Mrs. Nellie T. Bush received a banner headline in the Parker Pioneer, a newspaper published Fridays at Parker, Arizona, when she was named Parker police judge.

In the story it was reported that the council named Mrs. Bush, a local attorney, to the post following the dismissal of O. N. Hamilton, following a "stormy row" with the council.

Mrs. Bush, a former Brookings resident, was praised for her past services to the town in the capacity of city attorney. Her appointment was announced in the Pioneer in inch high type on the front page.

Women Learn to Construct Clothing

Last week the project leaders and 4-H Clothing leaders in the three districts of Curry County completed their first day of a four day series of workshops—training in basic clothing construction says Mrs. Sylvia C. Lee, Home Extension Agent.

In the northern district 12 project leaders met in the home of Mrs. Arliss Kosta, in the central district 10 project leaders met at the Ophir Grange Hall, and in the southern district 14 leaders met in the Chetco Grange Hall for their training to assist others in their groups in this same instruction.

To passers-by they heard the humming of the sewing machines; hissing of steam irons and no doubt much conversation like, "always press on the lengthwise of the material; straighten up the torn edges and the salvages; now match up your creases so the hem will be on the straight of the grain. . . grainline. . . always the grainline?" Well that is just what they are learning to do, says Mrs. Lee and they are learning to do a professional job in a time and energy saving way.
