All members of Churches of Christ and Christian Churches now living in or near Brookings are invited to attend a special meeting in the I. O. O. Features of the meeting will be a discussion of plans for the forming of a new congregation here and a period of worship including observance of the Lord's Supper.

Ragland Gives Talk To Garden Club

W. E. Ragland, Chetco District Forest Ranger, gave a most interesting and educational talk on "Conservation in Brookings" to the women of the Azalea Garden club at their last meeting.

His compliment to women's groups was "we get our strongest and most active support from women. Men so often are too preoccupied with their day to day job to be much concerned about the future of conservation". He also said "that when a group of women decided to do something about a problem, or support a movement, things begin to happen as they are not easily sidetracked."

He suggested the following ways in which women can help in conservation:

1. To keep themselves informed on current conservation issues. He recommended that they read the American Forest magazine and subscribe to it for the school and

Choir to Sing Here

An eighty-voice choir of Milo Academy will sing here Saturday at 11:00 o'clock in the Seventh Day Adventist church. This will be their first appearance in Brookings, according to the pastor of city library.

2. By supporting legislation which encourages favorable economic climate toward conservation or better land use.

3. Cooperate with local Chamber of Commerces in encouraging new businesses such as wood waste, hardwoods, etc.

4. Encourage more conservation teaching in schools by helping to furnish conservation teaching aids. There are several items that have been prepared to help teach it in schools, and samples were left with Garden Club conservation chairman. Mrs. Roy Weideman, as also was a copy of the American Forest magazine.

the church, M. L. Tompkins. They will be singing in Grants Pass, Brookings, Gold Beach, and Coquille on this trip. Milo Academy, of high school level, just east of Canyonville, Oregon is operated by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. The school has been in operation for only two years, with an enrollment of two hundred students.

The choir, under the direction of W. R. Wheeler, has given concerts in Portland, Medford, Roseburg and many other Oregon cities. Mr. Wheeler has directed choirs in South America before coming to the great northwest. His choirs have been well received both in this country and South America.

According to the pastor, all are welcome to enjoy this musical treat in Brookings on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Vernon of Gasquet visited the past weekend with friends in Brookings.
