Car Ends Up Near Cliff

A man and his wife were injured Sunday afternoon, at about 4:45, when their car went out of control near Harris Beach park.

Kay and Monte Newell, Gold Beach, were driving north when the accident happened. Two versions of the accident were available. One reported that the car had hit the left edge of the road, and then veered out of control, narrowly missing going down some 100 feet to the beach. Another person reported that an oncoming car had caused the Newells to lose control of the vehicle.

Both were taken out of the car, and taken into Dr. Anthony Leschin's office, where they were treated for multiple bruises and lacerations.
