LUMBER MARKET CONTINUES STEADY

Except for an occasional premium item, lumber prices have not changed significantly during the past sixty days. However, the outcome of several factors now facing the industry could drive prices upward, according to Random Lengths, Eugene weekly lumber market letter.

A labor strike and freight increases, both now possibilities, plus the annual Fourth of July shutdowns that reduce lumber production, could easily push prices to higher levels. Meanwhile, the market is static and prices remain unchanged.

Demand for some items in random length green dimension show strength, but most require premium loadings and exact tallies to sell. Studs and long dimension are still on the weak side. Boards are moving very slowly, but there has been a slight pickup in timbers and other cutting.

Large fir mills shipping mixed cars of green and kiln dried lumber report fair buying by retail yards, but well below what it should be for this time of year. Inquiry is heavy for hard-to-fill items and quick shipment.

The tempo of the pine market picked up a little last week, but prices showed no change. Low grade selects and commons continue to move slowly, and shop grades face a weak market.

Sheathing leads the plywood market, and orders for July shipment are being taken at increased prices. Sanded stock remains unchanged at the $72 basing level for quarter-inch AD stock, but recently new orders were slightly production.
