BROOKINGS MILL MENTIONED IN BOOK

A book called "This was Sawmilling" is now in print. It was written by Ralph W. Andrews, and was published by the Superior Publishing Co. Box 2190, Seattle, Wn. It is the third in a series of books written by Mr. Andrews.

Our informant reports that there is a slight nostalgic tale about the old Brookings mill included in the colorful saga of West Coast sawmilling.

Other books written by Mr. Andrews include "This was Logging", and "Glory Days of Logging." A fourth book on the Redwoods is proposed for 1958.

All of the books have been hailed as being historically accurate accounts of a passing phase of the old Northwest.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Mrs. Ethel Twohy, and Mrs. Elaine Heffele were chosen to be delegates from the American Legion Auxiliary #138 of Brookings, to attend the American Legion Auxiliary Convention at Eugene on August 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th.

Any Auxiliary member can attend the convention who wishes to go.
