Preventing forest fires and helping to Keep Oregon Green is the duty of every citizen.

ARRIVES HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Berger have arrived in Brookings to make their home. They are from Bourbon, Ind. and have two children, Karen, 13, and son Stephen, 10. The Bergers went through Brookings over 11 years ago, and liked it so well they decided to come here to live. They have been corresponding with Pete Lesmeister.

The future of Oregon's forests is secure, if its number one enemy, FIRE, is prevented. KEEP OREGON GREEN.

Jehovah's Witnesses Convention

Eight members of the Brookings Bible Study Center of Jehovah's witnesses, including Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warthan, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bennet, returning from the "Tell the Good News" circuit convention of the preaching fellowship at the main exhibit building, Del Norte Fairgrounds, Crescent City, reported that more than 1,190 persons assembled Sunday afternoon to hear William D. Couch, district minister of Jehovah's witnesses deliver a stirring Bible discourse "Removing The Barriers Dividing Mankind."

"Many barriers confront men today which prevent him from enjoying the blessing of his Creator some of which are greed, selfishness, materialism, delinquency, racial discrimination, etc. but even if all these barriers were removed by man he would still need doctors, undertakers and tombstone makers," Couch declared.

At Jedediah State Park, thirty-five new witnesses were baptized.

Don't burn up Oregon's resources. Be careful with fire.
