SALUTATORY

In taking over the control of the Willamina Times we realize that we are stepping into shoes that will be hard to fill. Mr. and Mrs. Manire have worked hard and faithfully and have made the Times a real newspaper. We hear expressions of regret on all sides that Mr. Manire's health forces him to leave. We are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Manire for their kindness in getting out this and last week's issues of the paper.

The field of the Willamina Times is Willamina and the surrounding trade territory. No country newspaper can hope to compete with the city papers in national and world news nor can the dailies ever compete with the community paper in its field. Both have a place in the scheme of things. In politics the Times will remain independent. We shall try to print all the news without bias or malice, and we ask the cooperation of all. Remember, the bit of news you know and keep to yourself doesn't help make your paper newsy.

From a field of several similar towns we choose Willamina because it seemed most alive. The advertising columns of the Times were well patronized by the merchants of the town which is as good a barometer of conditions as can be had. We do not expect to set the world on fire or work miracles, but we will work hard for anything we are convinced is for the best interests of the community.

3,500,000 U.S. ANGORA GOATS PROVIDE MANY USES—MOHAIR CHIEF PRODUCT

GOATS SERVE MAN IN ENDLESS WAYS

Airplanes and Indoor Golf Courses Use Fabric Made from Angora Fleece.

PERHAPS you have sometimes wondered why all railway seats are upholstered in the same material, the familiar mohair velvet that in our childhood days was invariably a bright red or green and always of one or two standard patterns. Today even train interiors have become color-conscious and soft greens and taupes and warm blues are seen but are still of the same mohair velvet to the extent, it has been estimated, of twelve million yards in the trains of the country.

The reason for this is that no other fabric has been found that will stand all the hard wear and tear that 24-hour service means. Made from the fleece of the angora goat, mohair velvet or velmo, is one of the most popular and serviceable of fabric materials. One hundred million yards are in use on automobiles alone and many more on motor busses and for the interiors of airplanes.

In addition to this, velmo is also used for upholstering furniture, for draperies and even for rugs and is especially in favor with the housewife because it is chemically moth-proofed in manufacture. It is also used for theatre curtains and chair coverings, because of the sound absorption the deep pile fabric affords, which is an important consideration in talking picture theatres. Like everything else, mohair velvet has "gone modern" and can be had in an endless variety of colors and patterns and weaves. Over five hundred shades of green alone are reported by one New England mill.

But an upholstering fabric is by no means the only service the mohair fleece renders. The finest indoor golf courses are made of a rich, deep pile mohair velvet. Lap robes and steamer rugs, lifelike stuffed animals, trimmings for house slippers and even wigs and transformations are made from this snowy fleece which more closely resembles human hair than any other known fibre.

Each fibre is much stronger than wool and due to its unique physical structure takes a fadeless dye. Because of its sleek surface, it does not readily retain dust and dirt and in fact, the pile surface acts as a brush and makes the traveler's clothing actually cleaner at the end of the trip than it was before!

So great has the demand been for this fleece that within a comparatively few years, the industry of angora goat raising has been transferred from Turkey and South Africa to the United States, which now leads the world both in the production and manufacture of mohair fleece.
