BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A CURE FOR OBSTINACY

JOHNNY CHUCK was stiff and sore. It was the day after the great fight. Johnny sat on his doorstep and he was in anything but a happy state of mind. In the first place, each separate wound made by the teeth of Reddy Fox had a separate and distinct ache. No one who aches all over can be in a very happy state of mind.

Then, too, Johnny was nervous. He kept turning his head every two or three minutes to make sure that all was safe behind him. That stone wall which had seemed such a splendid protection when he built his house in the corner of it now seemed a constant danger. Johnny imagined he heard enemies creeping up on the other side of it. He expected to see the head of Reddy Fox or Mrs. Reddy bob up over the top of that wall any minute. No one as nervous as that can be in a very happy frame of mind.

Also Johnny was beginning to be quite honest with himself and to admit that he wished he never had thought of leaving his fine home in the far corner of the Old Orchard. He wished he was back there. He knew now that it was the very best place in all the Great World. At least, it was the very best place for him. But he was still too obstinate to make up his mind to go back there. If there had been no one there he wouldn't have minded. But Polly Chuck was there and Johnny just couldn't make up his mind to go back and confess that he had been wrong in the first place. Of course, no one feeling that way could be in a very happy frame of mind.

But what made him most unhappy of all was the fact that he was hungry and all the time growing hungrier. He didn't go far enough away from his doorstep to get his breakfast, and he hadn't had much to eat the day before, nothing at all after the great fight. With longing eyes he looked over to the distant clover patch. After his experience of the day before he didn't dare go so far from his house. If he had been feeling all right he wouldn't have dared to. Stiff and sore as he was it was out of the question. He couldn't run and he couldn't fight.

He tried to eat some of the grass near his doorstep. It was thick with dust and so gritty and unpleasant to the taste that he managed to swallow only a little of it. So the morning passed and afternoon came. With every passing minute Johnny grew hungrier. The hungrier he grew the more he thought of the delicious sweet clover which grew so close to his old home in the far corner, and the more he thought of this the more he thought about going home.

Late in the afternoon Sammy returned to see how Johnny was getting on. An idea came to Johnny. He would ask Sammy Jay to keep watch while he hurried over to that patch of clover and get a bite or two. Sammy agreed at once. But Sammy is just brimming over with mischief, as you know. Johnny was only half way to the patch of clover when Sammy screamed. Back scrambled Johnny Chuck as fast as he could. When he found it was just a joke he scolded as only he can scold. This tickled Sammy Jay and he flew away laughing. You see, Sammy didn't know how very, very hungry Johnny Chuck was.

By the time Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun went to bed behind the Purple Hills, hunger and fear had quite cured Johnny Chuck of obstinacy. He would start for home the first thing in the morning.

APPETIZING DISHES

IN THE spring and early summer green foods—fresh vegetables and fruit—are more appealing than more complicated foods. There are some roughage foods that are needed all the year round and an occasional use of bran in food, or taken in water as a drink, will keep the elimination good. For the children the bran may be given in small cakes, cookies and macaroons.

Bran Date Muffins.—Break two eggs into a mixing bowl and beat with an egg beater for two minutes; add two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth cupful of sugar and one-fourth cupful of softened shortening. Add two tea spoonfuls of baking powder to one cupful of flour, add one cupful of bran one-half cupful of dates cut fine, and one-half cupful of nutmeats cut fine. Mix all as usual and beat well. Bake in well greased muffin pans for twenty-five minutes.

Calf's Liver Sandwich Spread.—Rub cooked liver with hard-cooked eggs through a sieve, using to one pound of liver three hard cooked eggs. Add one grated onion, salt and pepper to season. Mix well and spread on buttered bread. A layer of thinly sliced sour pickle will add to the sandwich.

Liver Sandwiches.—Rub cooked liver while hot through a sieve, season with salt and pepper and mix with three-fourths the amount of thinly sliced olives. Spread on buttered rye bread.

Shrimp and Liver Sandwiches.—Take one cupful of cooked shrimps, one cupful of cooked chicken livers, one Bermuda onion and one green pepper. Remove the seeds from the pepper and grind with all the other ingredients; mix with a little mayonnaise or chili sauce. Use on buttered white bread for filling.

GRAPHIC GOLF

WEIGHT ON HEELS AIDS PROPER STROKE

KEEP the weight back on the heels is the advice handed out by MacDonald Smith. This allows the body to turn just enough to prevent retarding the arm movement as the clubhead is swept down and through with the arms. The shoulders are held back instead of coming around to the left ruling control and power. To offset too rigid legs in this position the knees should be bent slightly. A slight give here also keeps the golfer from stooping over too far. A fault of golfers in general is that they bend forward too far with the weight on the toes, a position in which it is difficult to pivot properly. One reason for this is that the ball is often too far away, necessitating leaning forward to reach it. With the body back on the heels, a better balance is maintained and the weight can be transferred smoothly. Be sure the weight is back on the heels at the start of the swing and that foot which bears the weight during different stages of the stroke should be firmly planted on the ground.

CRIBBAGE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

HALF of the game is what you throw away, And what you keep, before you start to play.

And life's the same, Same sort of game— Much like a hand of cribbage that you play.

Count up your cards, not after but before,

Keep what will likely make the largest score.

Some joy denied And thrown aside May, at the finish, make you even more.

Discard the useless from your heart and mind,

The plans unworthy and the thoughts unkind,

Old hurts, old hates, And selfish traits, And winning will be easy, you will find.

Yes, keep the right and throw the wrong aside,

The little jealousies, the foolish pride. Consider, too,

The things you do, The evil habits from the good divide.

For they will win who wisely will discard

The useless action and the useless card.

Watch life the same, Then play the game—

And you will find the winning not so hard.
