

The NEIGHBORHOOD

FERN DISTRICT

By KENNETH STUART

Messrs. and Mesdames H. A. Stuart and H. H. Benjamin drove to Portland last Saturday to see the U. S. fleet. They also enjoyed a lunch and a short visit with Mrs. Fred Johnson, who was the Fern school teacher last year.

Mrs. Wright of Salem is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Newbill, while Roy is away on the threshing crew.

Paul Blanchard's are enjoying a visit with their daughter Jean and her friends from Wyoming.

Mrs. Loyd Blanchard and Retha have returned from Portland, where Retha was taking treatment for her eyes.

Alvan Freeborn and Kenneth Stuart drove to Amity Sunday and accompanied Irvin Hahn to Portland to see the fleet. They enjoyed a nice visit, in the afternoon, with a former Kansas schoolmate, Mark McDanel. He is stationed on the U. S. S. Milwaukee. It was very interesting for the four young men to again meet, so far from where they had first known each other and gone to grade school together.

Joel Howard was home over the week end for a visit with his parents. He is working in McMinnville.

Charles Moore and H. A. Stuart are working on one of Virgil Heider's combine crews this week.

Several from this community are working on the Werth threshing crew.

Mrs. Cloyd of Sheridan was a visitor at the Benjamin home this week. She helped Mrs. Benjamin with her peach canning, as Mrs. Benjamin was slightly laid up from a fall in which she bruised her side and ribs.

OLD GRAND RONDE

(By M. PETERSEN, SR.)

Earl Linn of Chahalis, Wn., brother of Mrs. Mabel Linn Wilson (wife of Melvin Wilson of Grand Ronde), died August 10th, of heart failure. He leaves his wife, three children and his father, all of Chahalis. Deceased was of one of the well-known pioneer Linn families that settled in Clackamas county, near Estacada, in the 1850's.

W. S. Lauthers was happily surprised Saturday when a number of relatives and friends drove out from Portland. Sunday morning the visitors and Mr. Lauthers took lunch with them and drove to Neskowin, as some of them had never seen the Pacific ocean. Seven of them went in one car. They were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. and John H. Brooks, the Misses Edna Hollenbeck and Ovetta Curry, and Mr. Lauthers.

W. S. Lauthers has been milking Jasper Boydson's cows for him while he is employed at Otis doing some carpenter work for the government.

George Petersen, wife and baby, accompanied by a Mr. Nelson, farmer and prizefighter, surprised his parents last Saturday afternoon and spent a couple of hours with them.

Max Madison, wife and son called on M. Petersen Sunday to get his sign—"Madison Ranch"—to be placed on the highway to mark the entrance to his place.

Reas Halfin and friend from Salem visited his sister, Mrs. Irene Kelly, recently.

Mr. Skaling used the Pioneer Garage last week while making repairs to a woman's car that was badly damaged.

Wm. Trent of McMinnville, who did the grading on the highway, and his nephew, Sam Trent of Salem, called on M. Petersen Monday as they were returning from visiting Wm.'s brother John at Tillamook.

Emil Carlson, son-in-law of Herman Muller, and one of the prosperous farmers of New Grand Ronde, has recently bought a new Chevrolet car, a milking machine and an electric refrigerator.

Forest Fisher, the smiling meat vendor at Bob Miller's New Grand Ronde market, has bought himself a new Dodge automobile.

Friday morning five government houses on trucks, filled with CCC workers, passed through Old Grand Ronde enroute to Tillamook.

Mrs. Petersen has recuperated and is again able to do her housework. During her illness Mrs. Irene Kelly and Mrs. Geo. Duffield helped Mr. Petersen with the work.

P. D. Murphy, wife and three children and his mother, and R. E. Robbins, wife and mother, of Grand Junction, Colorado, are here to stay, and have taken the Lizzie Banach garage.

Joe Lawrence has purchased the 160-acre ranch formerly owned by Herman

Muller. He gets all this year's crop of hay with the place, so is baling his crop from the Hewitt Davenport place. Our old friend Ford said he never made anything until he had his own home. Children raised on a rented farm never become good farmers.

Last week two government agent or inspectors visited the both stores here, giving instructions that a new law requires permits to buy and sell many things—permits to buy chittim, to sell aspirin, and a list too numerous to mention. What next? Before the Revolution the King's agents harassed the citizens with permits and taxes so that the king's court could live in splendor. Exit followed.

The Grand Ronde Lumber Co. is shipping considerable building lumber to Wheeler.

Burley Perry is one of the Al farmers of this vicinity. He recently bought 80 acres from Melvin Wilson, and in the short time he has improved the place 50 per cent. It is wonderful what a man can do if he has it in him. His wife is fine housekeeper and has a lovely furnished house. They have four children: William, 14, at home; Irene, now visiting in California; Robert, a teacher in Canada, and Mrs. Gladys Campbell, living in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hutchins also have an up-to-date little farm, much of which is set out to small fruits, and at present they are milking eight cows. Such farmers as these are an asset to Yamhill county.

GILBERT CREEK

By E. J. PATTERSON

Well, the people who attended the Seventh Day Adventist campmeeting at Gladstone Park during the week end have settled down to work again. The attendance at the meeting Saturday and Sunday was well over 6,000.

Jess Gearhart has a few men helping him, getting out material for the new school house.

Mrs. Grace Reed is having an addition built on her house. E. J. Patterson is doing the work.

Mrs. Palmer took a trip to Portland Sunday, and up the Columbia highway.

Mrs. Johnson has returned home from the Portland Sanitarium much improved in health.

Our new neighbors, that bought the Wilson place, have moved into the McNeil house for the summer.

H. Johnson has a beautiful strawberry patch of the Mastodon variety, well loaded with the makings of short-cakes. Ah, me!

The Times will be glad to receive wood, potatoes or other produce on subscription accounts.
