Mrs. Kenneth B. Graham, Saturday Bride

The vows were exchanged in the First Christian Church in Sheridan, with the minister, Rev. Leonard Manson reading the impressive double ring ceremony before an altar backed with white iris, orange blossoms and candles.

Preceding the ceremony, while Mrs. Roy E. Durham, at the piano, played "Through The Years," by Vincent Yeomans, the Misses Jessie McNamar, cousin of the bride, and Barbara Hufford, a sorority sister, lighted the candles at the altar. Mrs. Sanford C. Risseuw sang "Because," and Mrs. Durham played the familiar strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, by Wagner.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white all over net over satin formal, with a fingertip veil held in place by a net cap arranged with small rosettes of net outlined in shell pink pearls. She carried a white orchid on a small white Bible belonging to her mother, and from which fell a shower of fresias caught in tiny bowknots of satin ribbon.

Attending her sister as Maid of Honor, was Miss Lodeil Lamson who wore a blue net formal and carried a bouquet of talisman rosebuds in which nestled a gardenia.

Elery McKern of Corvallis, was best man for the groom, and the ushers were Raymon Blair, Alan Sechrist, Joe Steward, and Martin Rudy.

The bride's mother was attired in a green jersey formal trimmed with silver sequins and had a band of gardenias in her hair. For her son's wedding Mrs. Graham wore a gown of black and white crepe and also had a band of gardenias in her hair.

The reception followed immediately in the church parlors which were decorated for the occasion with white peonies and the bride's table was adorned by a floral piece matching the dainty rosebuds on the cake which was four tiered and complete with miniature bride and

The guests were relatives and close friends of the contracting parties.

For going away the bride wore a grey dressmaker suit with black and white accessories. After a short honeymoon spent in Miss Ann Steward's lodge at Timberline they will be in Sheridan while they are getting established in McMinnville where the groom will attend classes at Linfield college.

The bride is a graduate of Willamina Union High School and has completed two terms at the University of Oregon in Eugene where she affiliated with the Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

The groom has only recently re-
