GOLFING NEWS

The Vernonia Men's Golf Association held their annual Spring Handicap tournament at the local Vernonia Golf Course Sunday, April 12.

Weather conditions were somewhat less than ideal, to put it mildly, however 18 enthusiastic golfers were in attendance showing how dedicated golfers can be.

Lynn Michener won the tournament shooting an even par 71 with his handicap. Fred Busch and Dan Fletcher came in second with 72's each.

Various prizes were given for long and the quality of their department.

The fire hall, the culmination of a several year old dream, was erected on land donated by Olympic Forest Products and except for $10,000 in taxpayers money, was built and financed entirely by volunteers who raised money for the project by holding dances, cutting and selling firewood and holding raffles. Even the children helped by pulling nail from old lumber so that it might be used again. The building has just been insured for $80,000, according to Laubach.

A potluck buffet lunch, prepared by the volunteer's wives and quickly consumed by the nearly 125 people present, completed the afternoon's program.

Grade School gym the slide and tape show pointed out the practices, including certain types of farming, irrigation and forestry practices, that tend to degradate stream and small river environments. Soil erosion, loss of wildlife habitat and the effects of damming were also discussed.

Rawlings, past president of the Oregon chapter of the IWLA, has made this same presentation to over 80,000 school children all over the Northwest in the last three years. "I love it," he says. "The questions they ask never cease to amaze me," he added. Tuesday's presentation was organized by the Vernonia Chapter of the IWLA.

The presentation, a part of the 'Save Our Streams' program entitled Oregon Streams: At the Crossroads, pointed out Oregon's leadership in establishing conservation legislation but also made the point to the children that maintaining our water resources depends on each of us and that it is never too early to begin taking an interest in protecting those resources.

AEROBIC DANCING

by Penny Port
