Cedar Side Burglarized

Early last Monday morning, some time between 3:15 and 5 am it is estimated, someone broke into the Cedar Side Tavern.

While no point of entry was located the thief (or thieves) got away with a small night safe containing approximately $300, a full box of frozen shrimp, a Miller tap beer handle and all of the various keys to the premises. The owners, Rose and Ray Foster, speculate that the keys were stolen so the safe might be easily and quickly opened. The thief, however, overlooked the safe key, hanging in plain sight, and made off with all of the rest of the keys apparently in the mistaken belief that the safe key was with the others.

"I would gladly trade the safe key for the rest of the keys that were taken," says Rose. "But I expect it is too much to ask that anyone come forward with them."

While no arrests have been made, and police officials as yet have no hard suspects, the investigation is continuing.

Mother of Year will ride in special Jamboree float

The Oregon Mother of the Year, Mabel Bodle, will be riding with this year's float sponsored by the local Pair-a-Tykes club, according to Mary Lou Busch, the organization's president.

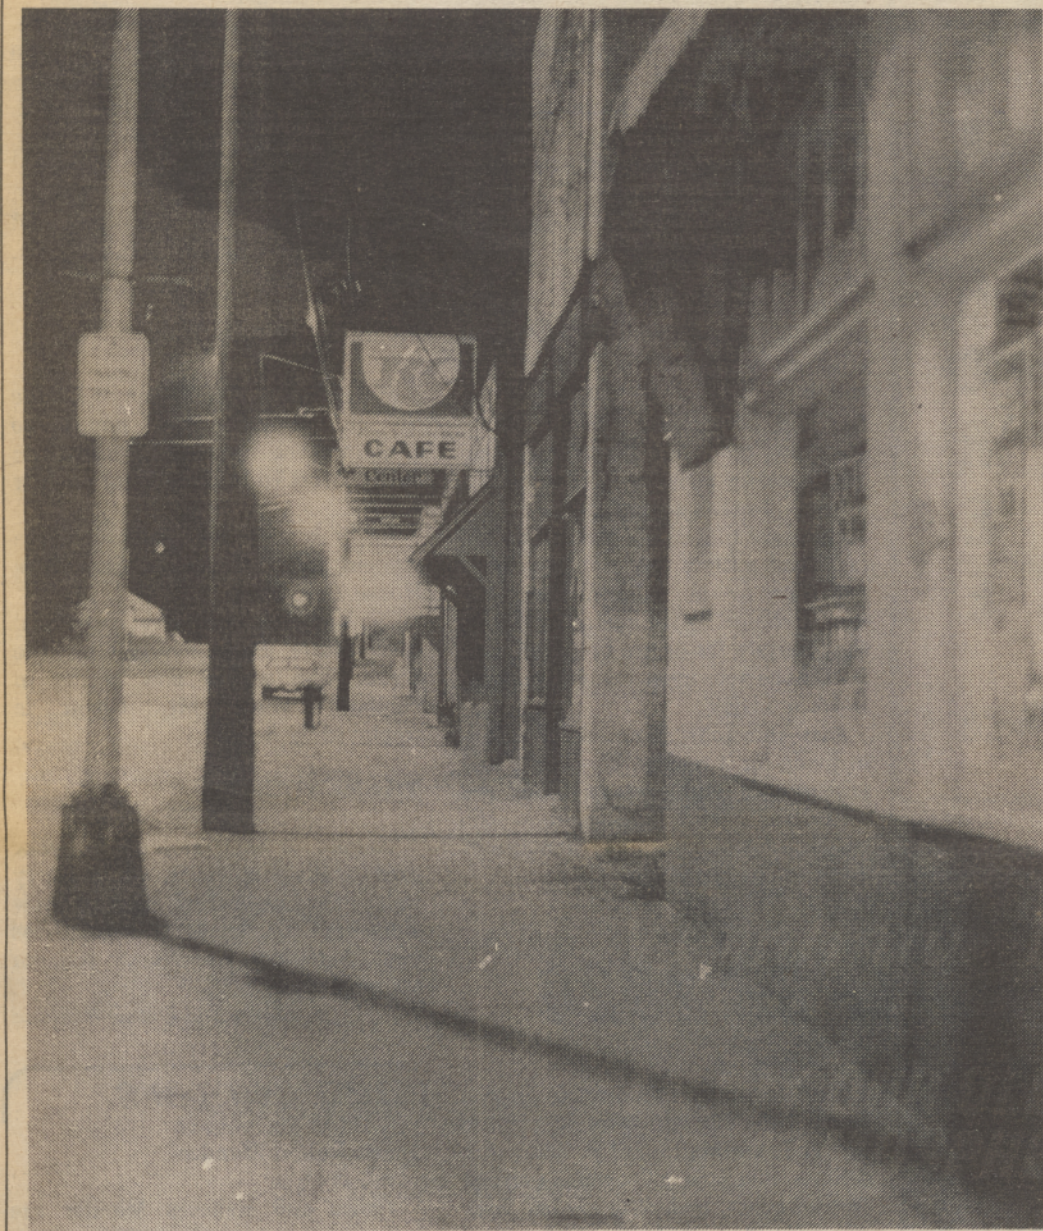

Bodle, a Portland resident, is a past president of the Portland club and was nominated for the prestigious Mother of the Year award by the local organization, Busch, a Mist resident, says.

The Pair-a-Tykes club is affiliated with the Mothers of Twins Club in Portland and exists to serve as a clearing house of information on the special challenges of raising twins, and as a forum for the parents of twins to use in exchanging helpful information between themselves.

CITY LIGHTS—

Midnight on Bridge St., and all is quiet on a clear, cool summer evening. Within hours traffic will have picked up, back to daytime levels of noise and confusion. In the meanwhile, to all appearances at least, all is calm.
