

JUST THINKING

Right now, I'm just not sure what to think. I heard it on the tapes. I'm glad I didn't go to the meeting. My husband covered it for me.

I would like to be able to say that I agreed with the council—that I didn't feel their (not every one at the council table felt that way) actions were unjust—but I just can't.

Unfortunately I have sat through too many meetings which were repetitious of Monday night's session. And somehow it seems, the results is always the same.

I have watched and listened and waited to see what the next move would be each time the matter of the Price property was brought up. This time it would seem they have reached the ultimate.

When Price first asked for water outside the city limits—the first time to my knowledge—he was told there was an ordinance against it. But earlier this year a list was submitted to the council which showed that at least one water hookup had been sold outside the city limits in the latter part of 1977.

Now there is a new ordinance stating that no one can purchase water hookups outside the city limits.

Price was fobbed off each time he approached the council for water on the grounds that the council could not make a decision until the problem of sewer hookups was solved. The sewer hookup problem was solved and now Price must face the fact that he will have to do battle to get water for his property.

As for annexation, well financially waiting for an election would be costly not to mention having to pay for it which may be in the future. And I'm wondering, why all the hassle over one piece of property.

Looking at it logically, it seems to me that the property taxes Price would pay for the annexed land would be well worth it to the city, considering how much trouble they have getting funds. And the place certainly isn't an eyesore. Far from it.

Rose Marie Ragner attended a seminar for Women of the Northwest. It was alumni of the Enriched Living Institute who held a Portland area one-day workshop at Hinson Memorial Baptist Church in Portland.

A bridal shower was held in honor of Amy Olson who will be having a spring wedding. Many friends made it a special occasion to remember.

So why? I don't know.

But the council is adverse toward Price. They have stated so themselves.

I could say more I suppose but somehow it seems rather pathetic to keep on preaching. Especially when some don't seem to care anyway.

Did you see our new features in this week's issue. We would like to have your opinion on the crossword puzzle, the horoscope, the kitchen corner and the kids corner. If you would like to see more of any one feature or all, drop by or leave a note. We'll get them for you.

CPAC meet set for April 14

A general meeting of all the CPAC members of the county has been called for Friday, April 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Trojan Visitors Center.

On the agenda will be the newly proposed regulations relating to the seven CPAC areas. Input has been asked for by the Board of County Commissioners before they make any change in the existing resolution (No. 4-78) passed January 11, 1978.

Other business will include discussion on whether the last elections were valid, the status of the proposed Interim Framework Plan, and other topics raised at the meeting.

Copies of the proposed

Clean water is everyone's business

A new citizen action program, Save Our Streams—Adopt One—is turning that SOS into a major force for clean water in America. Thousands of people have now adopted and are caring for streams, lakes and rivers all over the country. And anyone can join in.

As an SOS stream adopter, a person designs their own program based on the needs of the stream and resources available to the individual or group.

And it doesn't have to be a whole stream. Adopt a hundred feet or several miles; a group can be as small as two people or as large as five hundred.

Whatever the scope of the project, when a person adopts a stream with a commitment to care for it year round, they become an important part of a positive, practical and ongoing citizen action program that will help improve and preserve the precious waterways of this country for generations to come.

regulations are available at the Planning Department. It is suggested, by the Scappoose-Spitzenberg CPAC, that copies of both the existing resolution, 4-78 and the proposed regulations be reviewed in advance of the meeting so that CPAC members will be prepared to give their views and recommendations.

All CPAC members are urged to attend.

Giving Can Be Doing
Contributions to the American Cancer Society aren't only the cash kind. Volunteers are needed for a wide variety of vital work. Skills you have right now may be adapted to fighting cancer. See your local American Cancer Society, and start helping to save lives now.

but none had been received. Council... Also, The Recorder... Hazel's Craft Shop in Scappoose has classes in Oil Painting - Tole Painting Macrame - Water Color Norweigan Rose Maling Hazel's Arts & Crafts 201 S. Col. River Hwy. Scappoose 543-6254. Check with us on special workshops.

Vernonia News Weekly

Published every Thursday at 705 Bridge St., Vernonia, Or 97064 - 429-4201

Second class postage paid at Vernonia, Or 97064

Subscription rate: $5 in Columbia County; $6 elsewhere.

Mailing Address:

PO Bx 97

Vernonia, Or 97064

Publisher: Wm. G. Rhoades

Editor: B. Wayne Rhoades

Adv. Mgr.: Wm. C. Rhoades

Correspondents: Grace Peachey,

Pythians to hear report on convention

Vernonia Temple Pythian Sisters will meet next Wednesday, April 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the IOOF Hall for a regular meeting. The report of Mary Brown, Temple representative to the District 1 convention at Aurora March 18 will be heard. Accompanying her to the all-day session were Irma Chance, convention treasurer; Faye Davis, and Lesta Garner. At the last Temple meeting, March 8, delightful refreshments were served by Rose Poetter at tables decorated with the St. Patrick's day motif.

The Temple birthday party for March was held March 17 at the home of Lucille Hickman. The birthday of Maude Wells was observed.

An Easter basket was delivered to Catherine Lentz, Temple mother, March 25.

In 1848 he rode across the great plains - One of the greatest Cheyenne warriors who ever lived.

GRAYEAGLE

Starring BEN JOHNSON • IRON EYES CODY • LANA WOOD • JACK ELAM
PAUL FIX and ALEX CORD

PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
SOME MATERIAL MAY NOT BE SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN

WINTERHAWK

STARRING: Michael Dante • Woody Strode
Elisha Cook Jr.

PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
SOME MATERIAL MAY NOT BE SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN

COMING NEXT WEEK

WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS
PETE'S DRAGON

TECHNICOLOR • © 1977 Walt Disney Productions

Joy Theatre
Fri-Sat. * 7:30 p.m.