

CHAPTER NEWS

And it would seem from the general theme

That no hard work is done.

But let me say, it's not all play

And the romance can quickly go

When you freeze your feet in the wind and sleet

As you ride thru the drifting snow.

I served my time in the dust and grime

At roundups in fall and spring.

When I roped and sweat 'till my clothes were wet

I wanted no camp-fire sing.

Warm winds on the slope and all that dope—

Yes, they are delights I know,

But take my share of the prairie air

When it registers thirty below.

You read accounts of the boys and mounts

And you'd think their thoughts were one.

That the horse would mind like a trained canine;

But that just wasn't done.

My own cayuse—how he'd cut loose!

And spill me time and again.

In retrospect I may love him, but Heck,
I didn't love him then.

I want to go back to my old ranch shack

With the rattlesnakes 'round the door.

I'd like to stay for maybe a day

And look things over once more.

But the west can go that I used to know—

Right here I'm spilling my beans—

I'll take my fun with horses and gun

From the movies and magazines.

ROSE CITY CHAPTER No. 5

Let it be known to all readers, Rose City Chapter is still in the game pitching, even though we have not appeared in our Magazine for the last two issues.

Resident Engineer Rod Porter has taken up his abode at Astoria for a while where he will be in charge of road construction near the Naval hospital. Rod recently completed the elaborate cloverleaf at the Denver and Union Intersection near Vancouver. He was ably assisted by Jay Barbee on this job and they deserve a lot of credit.

It is a little late, but we want it known that Rose City Chapter had a very fine time at their picnic on August 13 at Jantzen Beach Park. President Dakin forgot hotstuff long enough to brew some good coffee. For once all the kiddies got their fill of ice cream, and the old folks didn't do so bad. Members spent most of the afternoon at the amusement center, right along with the kids, even Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Young reverted to sec-
