"I noticed in the December issue that many of the men I used to go to high school with are in other parts of the world. Don Taylor and others I knew when I attended Salem High School. Also I noticed one article about French girls. I happen to be living in a French village in a shell-torn house (not bad) with a family. They have 5 in the family and all speak German although they can speak French. The 4 girls, 20 to 23, are certainly workers as we track in a lot of French mud into the house. However, the American women are still No. 1 for looks. However, I don't believe the American women realize how handy they have things over in the states. They should see some of these women wash. Makes me ache all over to watch them. They carry all the water from the village pump and tramp through the mud. But they so far are good to the G.I.'s.

"As for myself, I was employed, or rather worked, in Eugene with Resident Engineer Umplette and entered the Army during the construction of the Judkins Point project. What that point needed was some of this artillery shelling here. It would have saved some dynamite. As for the weather here, it rains like Oregon except in Oregon it stops for awhile in March. Should be spring around here some day though.

"Thank you again for your recent issues and will see you after the war. Keep up the Bond buying and home front."

Donald.

Sana J. Millette now with the Marine Corps Reserve has been promoted from Pfc. to Corporal and her work has been changed from mail clerk to typing. Sana was formerly employed by Traffic Engineering Division.
