HOUSING NEEDED

The housing authorities have resharp-ened their pencils and worked out a new set of figures for the lumber industry to aim at. So far the figuring has been chiefly addition, for the sum total of needed houses continues to grow.

Of the country's nearly 30,000,000 town and city houses, more than 6,000,000 are over 40 years old, and approximately 4,000,000 are in need of major repairs.

Population is increasing by more than a million each year. One and one-half million couples are getting married yearly. And some millions of returning service men are thinking about the subject.
