One fourth of salary rates reported fall below the first quartile rate (Q1); half the salary rates reported are above and half below the medium rate (M); three fourths of the reported salary rates are below the third quartile rate (Q3). The middle 50 percent of reported rates fall between the first and third quartiles. All rates shown have been converted to a straight time 40-hour work week for standard comparison purposes. In many cases actual reported work weeks and rates were for time in excess of this standard.

DARE TO SAY NO

It's exceedingly difficult to find facts when confronted with agreement. Even if a "no" attitude is wrong, it still helps to clarify thinking. In fact, no question should ever be settled until the negative side has been duly considered and thought out. Sheer mental laziness is often responsible for quick and, therefore, wrong, decisions.—Dr. Louis E. Bisch in Your Life.

Every outstanding success is built around the desire to do better than just good enough.

Do you know what real poverty is? It is never to have a big thought or a generous impulse.

I know people who have hung a "Do Not Disturb" sign on their brains.

Sign I saw on a church: "Clasped hands win better victories than clenched fists."—Jerome F. Fleishman in Your Life.
