Re-organization of the building's refreshment service was brought about promptly by the new canteen committee consisting of E. C. Sunderlin, George Renshaw and Ben Harrison. Already they have secured extra supplies, more evenly timed throughout the week, and they are planning to set up a refreshment counter in the building to help take care of the coffee hour rush—and incidentally to make still more money for welfare work which is being handled by a committee made up of Janice Bassett, Mary Schoettle, Irene Bachle and Elizabeth Deyo.

Better programs for association meetings seem in prospect with the naming of a committee headed by Gordon Brownell to take charge of lining up attractions that will bring out 100 per cent attendance. D. L. Byers, Norman Purbrick, Lillian Flake and Elma Sherman will see that members respond. Ways and means committee has C. K. Bell as chairman with A. G. McGuire and Don Sutherland as members.

Other plans for the year's program will be discussed at the December 10 meeting. Besides a few real problems to be acted upon, leaders hope that some interesting social gatherings will result and that the membership and scope of the association will be widened considerably during the coming months.

Incidentally the S.U.C.C. has been extremely busy during November with mechanics of taking over the U. S. Employment Service for state operation. With 325 employees in the Portland and Salem offices and at 26 local offices throughout Oregon, the U.S.E.S. should furnish some new members and ideas for our rejuvenated Salem chapter.

EVERGREEN CHAPTER No. 28

Evergreen Chapter No. 28, State Hospital chapter of the Oregon State Employees Association, is pleased to announce that during the past year its membership has steadily increased until it is now past the one hundred mark.

The regular meeting was postponed from October 11 to October 18, in order that the members might have the opportunity to attend the open hearing of the Civil Service Commission which was held in the Capitol Building on October 11. Several members attended this open meeting and spoke in behalf of their respective positions.
