

visited air conditioned Coos Bay in late February. I think that he must have acted as consulting engineer for Cecil Gall in the matter of designing a fence around Mr. Gall's property in Coos Bay.

Chuck Thompson, who is building his own house in Coos Bay, says to all his friends, "Come and see me any time, and bring your saw and hammer."

Harry Yoder and his crew are working on the new building site for the highway maintenance shed in North End. Ed Wilson and crew will be very glad to see it completed, and to get moved into the new quarters.

None of our members have said anything about getting married or having any babies recently, so I guess that will be "30" for this month.

PORTLAND CHAPTER No. 17

Our first meeting of the year started off with a bang—well attended and enthusiastic—in our new meeting hall, the W.O.W. hall, 12th Avenue, between Washington and Alder. Our outgoing President, W. Burns, after making a short informal talk of appreciation for the cooperation he had received through the year, handed the gavel to our new President, W. (Moose) Clark. The regular business of the evening was dispensed with in order to give all the time possible to our State President, Bjarne Erickson.

Mr. Erickson's talk was full of interest, not only for the members of O.S.E.A. but for all the workers in the various state departments. It is at the meetings of the O.S.E.A. that we find out what is really being done for the employees through the efforts of committees of the organization. Mr. Erickson spoke fully on the seven objectives of the legislative program, which was most encouraging to all present.

We were very happy to have as our guests, at our meeting on February 28, the officers and delegates from the other local chapters: From Rose City Chapter No. 5—J. Skelton, President; L. J. McReynolds, Secretary-Treasurer; and Tom Opedal; from Success Chapter No. 30—J. A. Norton, President; and William Bartholomew; from Public Welfare Chapter No. 31—Mary DeSantis, President; and Ethel A. Jones, Vice President. We trust they will all visit us again. A resolution was passed to form a Portland Area Council, the members of which should be officers and delegates from the four local chapters.

Following adjournment of the meeting, the officers and delegates of the four chapters met and formed the proposed Area Council, naming J. T. Skelton from Rose City Chapter No. 5 as Chairman. This Council will meet once a month to discuss Association problems and act as a grievance committee for the Area.
