

of fifty cent dues should also include mention of the local chapter dues which are additional. Note was made to change wording in the new pamphlet.

Mr. O'Neil suggested authorizing printing of new pamphlets of adequate number with some up-to-date literature explaining what the Association has done and what it is striving to do, something accurate and appealing. This was made as a motion and was carried.

Group Life Insurance for OSEA Employees

Mr. O'Neil moved that the group life insurance be made applicable to the Association's headquarter employees. He stated that it was possible to negotiate an amendment to the contract as the matter had been discussed with Mr. Vanette, the company representative, who had said it could be done. It was further recommended that Mr. Leo Smith's name be added to the list of employees. Motion was rescinded and new motion made that the benefits of the group life insurance be extended to all the employees of the Oregon State Employees Association. Motion carried.

Mr. O'Neil made a report on the policy of putting out the magazine quarterly and bulletins in the interim. The magazine will be out before the new year and will contain the minutes of the General Council meeting and the November Board of Directors meeting as well as the reports given by the officers. A bulletin will be in order as soon as the salary question is further along. He stated that as soon as there is something to report, and he hoped it would be soon, a bulletin would be issued telling what had been done and what the Association representatives had been told. He wished to know when there would be something definite.

President White stated he did not believe it would be long, but didn't know whether it would be before the first of the year. He felt there should be something by January 10 and stated that so far the publicity on the salary question had been discouraging and that the majority of the employees thought everything had been dropped.

Unfinished Business

Mr. R. M. Smith asked whether the new officers were bonded and insured and he was assured by Mr. Stewart that that business had been taken care of satisfactorily.
