

gate to the state council. Starting as a junior interviewer in the Eugene office, UCC, Mr. Shattuck has held varying positions as manager of the Hood River office; state farm placement supervisor; veterans employment representative in the Portland office; area field supervisor and his present position as SUCC personnel officer.

Gordon Shattuck

Mr. Shattuck came to Oregon in his teens, from Ohio. Graduated from Washington high in Portland and attended Oregon State college. His two years of WW II army life were spent at Fort MacArthur near Los Angeles as sergeant in the reception center. He claims to be one of the few men that the army classified according to their civilian jobs.

Mr. Shattuck and his wife are interested in their garden but reserve their real enthusiasm for polishing the agates that they collect during field trips to Central Oregon. Mr. Shattuck belongs to Bend Lodge 139, AF & AM; to the IAPES, employment service organization and to the Pacific Northwest Personnel Managers Association.

There isn't much to see in a small town, but what you hear makes up for it. Yesterday John Woods was telling us a story about two bees who got married and pretty soon they got a bumble from heaven.

Seaside along the northern Oregon coast offers one of the most popular beaches in the northwest with long, smooth, sandy expanses against background of Tillamook head jutting out into the ocean. The automobile turnaround in the middle foreground marks the end of the Lewis & Clark trail of 1805, when the first explorers came into the Oregon country. ## Ernest Rostel Dies

Ernest A. Rostel, long-time newspaperman and recently a special writer and photographer with the travel bureau of the state highway department, died in Salem Tuesday at the age of 43.

Rostel, who had been ill for several weeks, died in a hospital just before noon. He is survived by the widow, the former Margaret Hensley of Stayton, to whom he was married in 1935. He is also survived by a brother, Bert Rostel of Central Point.

"Ernie" will be missed by his many friends. He has contributed many short stories and articles for OSEA magazine and we will keenly feel our loss.

The deceased was born January 31, 1907 at Central Point, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rostel, pioneers of Jacksonville. He was affiliated with the Mail Tribune newspaper at Medford and then entered the national park service for 13 years. During the war years he was publisher of the Hartford County Gazette at Bel Air, Maryland. Later Rostel was city editor of the Morning Tribune at Lewiston, Idaho, and four years ago he joined the travel bureau here. His last assignment was the preparation of a pamphlet for the pioneer museum at Jacksonville, Oregon.

Though the people support the government, the government should not support the people.—Grover Cleveland.
