

OPEU Backs Controllers

OPEU's Board of Directors are urging all Oregon public employees to boycott airline service as a show of support for striking air traffic controllers.

OPEU president Deb Bolton said the action is not just in support of PATCO (the controllers' union), but is in support of the right of every public employee to participate in collective bargaining.

The recommendation came on a unanimous vote at the Board's Aug. 22 meeting.

"The action taken by the Reagan administration is extreme and the start of an excessively negative, anti-union campaign," said OPEU executive director Thomas Gallagher. "It is time for the administration to return to the table in respect for those issues being raised by these public employees. The administration has had plenty of opportunities to get its point across without firing the striking controllers."

Gallagher added that he believes it took extreme provocation by the administration to force 12,000 employees to walk off the job and to stay off the job.

In other action at the Aug. 22 meeting, the Board passed the following major motions:

To increase Kathy Perrenboom's (board recording secretary) compensation from $6.50 per hour to $7.25 per hour effective July 1, 1981, with a review during January 1982;

To draft a modification of Thomas Gallagher's contract to delete his car allowance and $2,000 per year raise, and to require Gallagher to pay all his expenses for International Executive Board travel, including past-expenses OPEU paid for Gallagher to attend the International Executive Board;

That any State agency which votes out Fair Share be reviewed by the Board and that the Board consider removing OPEU as the representative of any such agencies;

Endorsed Solidarity Day (Sept. 19) activities of AFL-CIO;

To accept a late resolution to General Council concerning funding of political action by OPEU.
